Dwight W. Morrow
The Pacific Conquered
They Work, Others Profit
No Substitute for Sleep

By Arthur Brisbane

SUDDEN DEATH ends the useful life of Dwight W. Morrow, a hard-working, sincere American citizen.

Mr. Morrow made his own way in the world and achieved success that would have more than satisfied many when he became an important partner in the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. He relinquished that position, with its great profits, when opportunity presented itself to render service to his country.

He did admirably the work intrusted to him in Mexico, bringing the nations closer together in friendship, acting as a tactful, efficient peacemaker in connection with regrettable religious troubles.

He died with a brilliant career and great honor still before him. His untimely death is a national calamity.

Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, Jr., able American fliers, TRIED and succeeded. Flying the Pacific in 41 hours, a non-stop flight, with only one supply of fuel, the brave men came down at Wenatchee, in the State of Washington, with a crash and a smile. What they had done had never been done before.

The length of their hop was 4465 miles, and they conquered the wide Pacific. Such an achievement should offset a good deal of pessimistic gloom.

The nation's prosperity and future depends on the minds and hearts of its people. We have the right kind of people.

Many building up great fortunes in the United States have died too soon, because they worked too hard. They have little leisure, less happiness.

They are envied and criticised when they should be thanked. When they are dead they have only six feet of earth, and the worms soon take that. Everything else goes to the public. A Vanderbilt, a Hill or a Harriman builds a great railroad system, permanently improving the country.

A Rockefeller accumulates money by "patience, perseverance, and industry", plus extraordinary intelligence, gives hundreds of millions to education, science, warfare against disease and his son continues the giving, while the father looks on approvingly.

Henry Clay Frick built up the United States Steel business with Andrew Carnegie, built for himself a magnificent palace in Fifth ave., bought beautiful works of art. His widow has died, the palace and all art works now become the property of the people. He could not give them away while his wife lived.

He followed an example set by the late Benjamin Altman, whose collection, surpassing any other made in this generation, was left to the City of New York, in which his fortune was made.

And so it goes, energy and intelligence build great fortunes, the people profit by them.

Or if owners foolishly leave too much to children, the children squander, usually, what they did not earn, and the money returns to the people.

All five of Edison's children are close to his bedside., The great genius and benefactor of this nation is gradually losing strength. The doctors give what comfort they can, saying, "Mr. Edison slept better, almost six hours." But there is no real comfort.

Unfortunately for his health, Mr. Edison has persistently deprived himself of needed sleep, grudging every hour taken from his work, even in old age. And that counts against him now.

Because of curtailing sleep, Mr. Edison did to his nerve battery, his own nervous system, what he would not do to his electric batteries.

Pope Pius has repeatedly inquired by cable concerning Mr. Edison's health. Mr. Edison is described as a "Free Thinker," but that makes no difference to

20,700 OUT IN LAWRENCE

MILLS CLOSE; WALKOUT SPREADS

Nine Arrests; Several Injured; All Police on Guard to Prevent Trouble

BULLETIN

Lawrence, Oct. 6—The Pacific print mill was shut down this afternoon when 1500 operatives joined the strike. It was the sixth mill to close its gates and its closing swelled the ranks of the idle operatives to 20,700.

Lawrence, Oct. 6—The textile strike closed five big mills today and disrupted operations at two more.

Approximately 19,500 workers were idle. The majority either refused to enter the mills or quit their posts, causing the shutdown.

Violence, disorder and intimidation attended the spread of dissatisfaction resulting from the proposal to cut wages 10 per cent next Monday.

NINE ARRESTS MADE

Nine arrests were made when a group of strikers invaded one mill, intimidated workers and attempted to turn off the power.

Police responded to a riot call when a group of unidentified youths stoned another mill, breaking a dozen windows.

Several persons suffered minor injuries in clasher with the police but picketing was generally peaceful.

Four plants ofthe American Woolen Co. were forced to close early. They are the Wood, Ayer and Washington mills here and the Shawsheen mill just outside the city limit. These mills employ 13,700 men and women.

The worsted plant of the Pacific Mills shut down at noon after 2000 of 3000 workers employed there had quit their machines.

QUIT WHEN JEERED.

About 400 of 3000 operatives at the upper Pacific mill also walked out.

At 1 p. m. 2500 of 5000 workers in the Arlington mills quit their posts after they had been jeered by 500 strikers.

2 MAIL FLIERS FEARED LOST

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 6 (AP)—The crash of a plane believed to be the ship-to-shore New York carrying mail from the liner Bremen was reported today by William Faulkner, lightkeeper at Bur Coat.

Whizzing along in the darkness, the craft was heard to come down heavily on Cobequid bay, he said. An explosion followed and cries echoed over the bay, but when Faulkner and other rescuers rowed out on to the bay they could find no trace of men or plane.

A mail plane, manned by Friob Simon, pilot, and Rudolph Wauchkneckt, mechanic, took off from the North German Lloyd liner Bremen yesterday when the ship was 830 miles off Cape Race, N. F., in an attempt to get the mail to New York 29 hours ahead of the liner.

Flying blind through fog and against headwinds, they reached Sydney, N. S., last night, and took to the air again about midnight.

HOOVER FOR 3-YEAR DEBT HOLIDAY

Copyright, 1931, by International News.

Washington, Oct. 6—A two-year extension of the reparations and war debt moratorium will be laid before congressional leaders by President Hoover tonight when they confer with him at a special White House conference.

This exclusive information was revealed today to the International News Service by a high Republican authority who discussed the matter with the President within the last few days.

President Hoover's telegraphic message to members was as follows:

"I am calling members of Congress for a conference with me Tuesday night, Oct. 6, on a matter of urgent national importance.

"I would deeply appreciate it if nothing was made public about this."

The President, it is understood, will inform the congressional leaders he meets tonight that he is under great pressure to extend further financial aid to Europe. He will ask their support for a three-year moratorium instead of the one-year debt holiday that they pledged themselves for last June. If sufficient backing for such a program is manifested the President will then proclaim the new moratorium just as he did the one-year plan.

Conference Tonight to Seek Way to Revive Industry

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—A program to set up constructive forces in American industry will be laid before congressional leaders tonight by President Hoover.

The domestic situation will be the principal concern of the conference of senators and representatives called by Mr. Hoover.

Tomorrow similar subjects will be discussed here with bankers and real estate men. Only eight or ten have been invited.

The President wants to put into action every possible agency of the federal government to aid American business. The relation of the banks to real estate financing has been discussed in his previous consultations with financiers.

No disclosure of the President's program will be made prior to his meeting with congressional chiefs tonight.

The purpose of tonight's discussion, as officially described today, will be to insure national unity behind the move the chief executive has in mind. Only one or two of the men to attend tomorrow's conference will be bankers, and the others real estate men.

ATCHISON GOES UP 16 POINTS

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—A sweeping advance, among the swiftest in stock exchange history, greeted the news of the constructive efforts in Washington to deal with the powers of depression today.

Gains ranged from 3 to more than 15 points in prominent shares. The turnover exceeded four million shares.

Directors of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad, at their meeting, declared the regular quarterly dividend of $2.50 a share on the common stock, payable Dec. 1. Rumors had been current in Wall st. that the board might order a reduction in the annual payment of $10 a share, and following the regular declaration, the stock bounded up briskly.

Issues up 3 to 5 included General Motors, General Electric, Pennsylvania and Bethlehem. Santa Fe shot up 16, then lost part of its rise.

24 TAGS COST PARKER $360

All dressed up in 24 parking tags, Maurice Weinbaum of Winchester st., Brookline, wholesale furrier in Winter st., was arraigned in municipal court today and fined a total of $360 for the 24 alleged offenses.

Weinbaum is the motorist whose long string of tags precipitated a wrangle between Police Commissioner Eugene C. Hultman and Traffic Commissioner Joseph A. Conry early in the summer and his fines today constituted a record for the court against one man.

Twenty police officers and Capt. Harry Dickinson of the traffic bureau appeared against Weinbaum, who is alleged to have ignored all 24 of the tags, placed on his car from February 2 to July 21 by officers of the Milk st. station, the Lagrange st. station and Traffic 20.

"How is it no complaint was made against the man until this time?" asked Judge Dowd. "It is incomprehensible to me that such a situation should exist in our traffic system.

"This is the most flagrant case ever brought before the court; the most outrageous defiance of the law I have ever witnessed."

Weinbaum appealed.

MAX BISHOP SCORES RUN FOR A'S IN FIRST

Earnshaw and Johnson Opposing Twirlers in the Fourth Game of World Series

Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Oct. 6—The Athletics evened up the count with the St. Louis Cardinals here today, winning the fourth game of the World Series before another capacity throng of 32,000 sweltering fans.

George Earnshaw started in the box for the Athletics, opposed by Sylvester Johnson, who relieved Derringer in the first game of the series at St. Louis. The Athletics scored in the first inning, Simmon's double off the left field wall bringing Bishop, who had previously singled home for a one run lead.

Earnshaw was invincible up to the fifth and it was "Pepper" Martin woh got the first hit. Martin singled and then made Earnshaw and Corcoran look foolish trying to catch him off first base,

MARTIN STEALS

To show it could be done, Martin stole second while Corcoran made a vain and wild try to catch him.

The Athletics staged a rally in the sixth to knock Johnson from the box and add two more runs.

With two down, Foxx hit the first pitch, a terrific smash, driving the ball over the upper roof of the left field stands. Miller followed with a double against the scoreboard and scored on Dykes's single to left. When Williams, next batter, singled past short, Gabby Street hauled Johnson in and replaced him with Lindsey.

Lindsey retired the side by fanning Earnshaw.

Bishop, first man up for the A's, wasted no time in clipping a single to center field, and after being ad-

LEADERS WILL PAY LAST TRIBUTE TO MORROW

PRES. HOOVER UNABLE TO ATTEND

Simple Rites Planned for the Funeral Tomorrow of Popular New Jersey Senator

Englewood, N. J., Oct. 6—While messages of condolence poured in from all over the world, the widow of Dwight W. Morrow today still awaited word from her daughter, Anne Lindbergh, in far-off China.

Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh were aboard the British aircraft carrier Hermes, cruising slowly down the Yangtse Estuary from Nanking, when her message reached them last night.

They did not arrive at Woosung, the debarkation point, until this forenoon, and then they had to travel to Shanghai before they were within reach of a cable office.

HOOVER CAN'T ATTEND

Their son, Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., who was left at the Morrow summer home in Maine when Senator and Mrs. Morrow came down to Englewood several days ago, will not be brought here for the funeral, a spokesman for the family said.

Friends of the Morrows said last night the baby was left there because of the prevalence of infantile paralysis in the metropolitan area.

The funeral, at 3 p. m. tomorrow in the First Presbyterian Church of Englewood, will be as simple as possible for a man in public life. There probably will be no honorary pallbearers, the family spokesman said.

President Hoover, who will not be able to attend, has asked Vice-President Curtis to represent him at the services.

With all her children, save Anne at home, Mrs. Morrow was said to be "bearing up wonderfully."

Dwight W. Morrow, Jr., came home from Amherst last night, and the youngest daughter, Constance, who was motoring up to the Morrow estate in Maine to visit her little nephew when word of her father's death reached her, arrive dthis morning.

President Hoover telephoned from Washington last night, it was revealed today, and talked to a member of the Morrow family. Among the messages received early in the evening were a cablegram from Ramsay MacDonald and a telegram from former President Coolidge.

Three young women were kept busy today opening thousands of telegrams and cablegrams.

Old friends of the family and men in public life continued to call at the Morrow home today. Among them was President William Allen Neilson of Smith College.

FOE OF PROHIBITION

Mrs. Morrow and her two elder daughters are graduates of Smith, and Miss Constance Morrow is a student there now.

The death of Senator Morrow removed from the political picture the man who was regarded in many quarters as certain to be the Republican standard bearer in 1936. His outspoken stand for the repeal of prohibition and his long and brilliant career in the world of finance and diplomacy had raised him as a strong possibility for the nomination next year.

The party policy, however, of extending a second term to the President, and Mr. Morrow's intimacy with President Hoover and former President Coolidge, had made this, in recent months, seem unlikely.

Mr. Morrow was stricken sometime during the night and apparently was in a state of coma several hours before the end came.

The senator, however, was able to send word yesterday morning, from his bed chamber, that he was not feeling well and would not be down for breakfast.

Official news of Mr. Morrow's death was not given out from the

CITY MARSHAL O'BRIEN

Lawrence police head, City Marshal Timothy J. O'Brien, in conference with some of his officers after the walkout at the American Woolen Co. plant that closed four mills today, adding 13,700 to the idle workers in the city and threatening to spread to other mills for a general strike that would leave 25,000 jobless.

ANNA BEDARD SOPHIE POLSKY LENA LISS

Here are three of the girls that led the walkout early today from the Washington mill of the American Woolen Co. in Lawrence. The strike, which it is feared will spread shortly from Lawrence to Lowell and other mill centers of the Merrimack Valley, is in response to the announced plan to cut wages 10 per cent next Monday. An effort to stop operation of the Pacific mills today was followed by nine arrests and arraignment of the prisoners

Police at Washington mill order picket line to "move on." At this plant the largest quota of American Woolen Co. employes reported for work today before the strike order was obeyed. There were more than 2500 on hand but all quit their posts. At the Ayer mill only 150 of the 2000 reported for work.

FUGITIVE GIVES HIMSELF UP

Sought since last January in connection with the Middlesex County prosecution of auto insurance frauds, George W. Damon, Marlboro real estate and insurance broker, surrendered today.

Accompanied by Attorney Temple, he appeared in Middlesex Superior Court, where he pleaded guilty to an indictment charging conspiracy to steal, and was held in $1000 for disposition later by Judge Gibbs.

No explanation was offered as to where Damon had been since January, when he was one of more than 30 defendants indicted by the grand jury.

The majority of the defendants went on trial, with the result that a number were given jail sentences, including two physicians, two insurance adjusters, and a law student. Five are still missing.

'BABY FARM' IS EXONERATED

Peabody officials today exonerated Mrs. Catherine Hemenway, custodian of a Glendale ave. "baby farm," of charges of neglect and mistreatment brought in Salem Probate Court.

Accusations were made in a petition brought by Louis Nardissi of Lynn for custody of his four-year-old daughter, Bertha, an inmate of the "farm."

Judge Alden White ordered an investigation, which resulted in the Hemenway home being given a clean bill of health. Dr. Laurence Kelly and Percival Murray, health commissioners of Peabody, said they inspected the house from cellar to roof and found it to be entirely sanitary. The children in Mrs. Hemenway's care, they reported, were in excellent health well fed and to all appearances receiving the best of care.

Both officials branded as falsehoods the statements that the children were not properly cared for and that Mrs. Hemenway had been denied a license because of complaints.

It was pointed out that none of the children in Mrs. Hemenway's custody was under three years of age and therefore a state license was not required.

GIRLS' PERJURY UP TO SUFFOLK

Evidence concerning the alleged perjury of Helen V. Purcell of Allston and Helen T. McCarthy of Cambridge, who twice changed their stories of an attack by two Woburn men now in State prison was turned over to Suffolk County authorities today, following their discharge from custody in Cambridge.

Judge Counihan in East Cambridge District Court found no probable cause on the recommendation of Asst. Dist. Atty. Volpe, who said that if any perjury were committed it had been before the parole board in Charlestown.

The girls yesterday repudiated their story before the parole board, declaring their original recital of an attack by Henry J. McCue, 25, and John J. O'Donnell, 22, was true. On the strength of this original story the men were sentenced to 15 to 20 years in State Prison.

olpe told Judge Counihan the girls had made a voluntary statement in Middlesex Superior Court yesterday, and all information in his possession had been turned over to Suffolk County.

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 6 (AP)—Richard H. Grant, vice-president of General Motors, told the American bankers' convention today that his corporation will employ as many or more men in November and December of this year and in January and February of next, as it has in the last eight months.

Grant predicted that the automobile industry in general surely could expect the first half of 1932 to show improvement over the first half of 1931.

He said his prediction was based on statistical research, not optimism.

CAMBRIDGE HITS 'WIFE TALLY'

The census bureau at Washington may say that Cambridge ranks lowest in the proportion of married women, but Mayor Russell arises to demand a recount.

And if the recount still shows Cambridge lowest in cities of 100,000 population, the mayor is ready to establish proof that Cambridge wives "can outcook, make better beds and raise better children than their married sisters of Flint, Mich., or any other city."

Flint, incidentally, is given the highest percentage of wives with 71.1 against 47.6 for Cambridge.

The chivalrous mayor, while not claiming to be an expert in such things, opines that the current depression might have something to do with the slump in the matrimonial market.

"This depression," he says, "is held responsible for about everything. Why not blame it for the shyness of our young men in popping the question? Then, too, Cambridge is an educational center and in such places many women prefer a career to pots and pans."

NEW YORK NOW GOAL OF FLIERS

Wenatchee, Wash., Oct. 6 (INS)—While their damaged monoplane underwent repairs at the airport, Hugh Herndon, Jr., and Clyde Pangborn, conquerors of the vast Pacific, began today preparations for a resumption of their eastward round-the-world flight.

The two "barnstorming aviators," who accomplished the first Japan to America non-stop flight, are now planning to take off for New York in a flight of easy stages. That was their point of departure in their unsuccessful attempt to lower the round-the-world flight record.

LINCOLN CALLED SHABBY, DAZED

Testimony that the late George C. Lincoln of Washington st., Malden, had frequently been "bewildered-appearang," and that his clothing was shabby and neglected after his wife's death, was given in Middlesex Probate Court today in the resumed contest of his will.

A cousin of Lincoln's, Mrs. Mabel Sherman of Dudley, is contesting the will, disposing of an estate of more than $200,000, on the ground that he was of unsound mind and subjected to undue influence.

Mrs. Ellen M. Bymes of 118 Linden ave., Malden, a neighbor for eight years, testified that before his wife died he was neat and cleanly dressed, but afterward was shabby.

"Once," she said, "I saw him in the street near my home, apparently bewildered. I asked him if he was lost. He said: 'I want to find my home.' I took him to the head of the street and pointed out his house to him. He didn't know me, apparently."

Her husband, Edward F. Bymes, testified to similar incidents. ... ..

COURT DISBARS LAWYER IN N. H.

Concord, N. H., Oct. 6—The New Hampshire Supreme court today issued an order disbarring Atty. George W. Munsey, Jr., of Exeter, former Haverhill, Mass., alderman, from practicing law in this state.

The Supreme court action follows an investigation made several months ago by the attorney general.

Munsey was placed on probation in June by Judge Louis S. Cox of the Superior court in Lawrence, Mass., following his indictment last year by the grand jury on a charge of larceny of $2610.20 in a bankruptcy case which he was handling.

Munsey told Judge Cox that he was working as a laborer in the Lawrence street department at a salary of $30 a week in his efforts to make restitution.

the head of the Catholic Church, who sees greater importance in Edison's services to the human race than in his passing individual beliefs. John Eyre Sloane, Edison's son-in-law, who is a Roman Catholic, has acknowledged gratefully the sympathetic messages from the Pope.

Optimism is beautiful, especially in a depression. Therefore, praise Mr. "Stitch" McCarthy, who defeated Mr. Jack Spero, in a contest for the title of "Chief of the New York League of Locality Mayors, Inc."

Mr. "Stitch," in the course of many fights and speeches that enlivened the election, remarked, "This Spero is just a crab . . . why, I beat him practically unanimous. The vote was 12 to 11."

That interpretation of figures is real optimism.

Unpleasant hours in Wall Street yesterday, the foolish that bought too high and too excitedly throwing property overboard for less than half its value. But the foolish man's fear is the wise man's opportunity. These days of depression will lay the foundation of future independence and permanent prosperity for many.

9 POLICEMEN GO HIGHER

Police Commissioner Eugene C. Hultman today announced the promotion of three sergeants to the grade of lieutenant, and six patrolmen to the grade of sergeant.

Promoted to the grade of lieutenant are: Sergts. Maurice Murphy, Div. 7; Leonard E. J. O'Connell, Div. 12; and Bernard J. Graham of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation.

The new sergeants include: John J. Laidlaw, Div. 5; Thomas J. Shaw, Div. 7; Leonard T. Banks, Bureau of Criminal Investigation; Francis P. Maguire, Div. 5; Eugene E. O'Meara, Div. 5; and Francis P. Maguire, Div. 5.

The men will be temporarily assigned to the office of Supt. Michael H. Crowley until his return from Europe. Then they will be assigned to stations.

Paralysis Cause of Vassar Quarantine

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Oct. 5—In an effort to protect its students from infantile paralysis, Vassar College has quarantined itself against the community.

The students are forbidden to enter stores or other places where there are crowds, and the community is barred from the college campus until the outbreak of the disease is conquered.

Garner of Texas Joins High Fliers

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—A 2000-mile flight for his first airplane trip did not disturb Representative John N. Garner of Texas, 62-year-old Democrat.

J. N. Garner

The white-haired Texan crawled out of the open cockpit of an army airplane at Bolling Field after a fast flight from South Texas.

"It did not bother me even if it was the first time I was ever in one of the dang things," Garner said.

SITUATED 290 MILES FROM NORTH POLE

Submarine Passed Over Peak Believed to Be 12,000 Feet in Height

By HERMAN GIESKE
(Copyright, 1931, by Universal Service)

New York, Oct. 5—Discovery of a submerged mountain in the north polar seas, a scientific event of the first magnitude, was revealed today by returning explorers of Sir Hubert Wilkins' submarine Nautilus.

Ray Meyers, chief radioman, told of amazing fathometer readings that showed Sir Hubert and his aides they were over a peak whose summit was scarcely 18 fathoms below the Arctic ocean's ice-glazed surface.

290 MILES FROM POLE

If later expeditions and soundings enable scientists to chart the exact location and perimeter of the mountain, current ideas as to how the solar system was formed may have to be revised. Many explorers have hitherto held the belief that, unlike the South Pole, there was no great bulge of the earth at the North Pole.

When the sounding was taken, Meyers said, the expedition was within 290 miles of the North Pole. He declared:

"The fathometer, which shows ocean depths by bouncing sound waves off the bottom, had been showing 2000 fathoms. Suddenly the depth reading showed shallower and shallower water, until finally the meter registered only 18 to 25 fathoms. Had weather and ice conditions permitted us to remain longer we undoubtedly could have charted its circumference. There was no doubt in the minds of scientists that we had found a mountain."

'WELL WORTH HARDSHIPS'

All of the 11 returning members of Sir Hubert's expedition agreed that submarine transit, under the ice, is feasible, in a better boat and under Arctic summer weather conditions.

By this they meant the ice would not be so thick as they encountered in September, when the winter freeze begins, and that they would suffer from fewer mechanical mishaps. Meyers explained:

U.S. GOLD POURS INTO EUROPE

London, Oct. 6 (INS)—The golden "battle of the century" centered on New York today, with Europe having withdrawn $63,000,000 in gold from the United States in the last week, and Asia, where gold is cheap, shipping $8,000,000 to New York to benefit by the exchange rate.

The Europa landed $14,000,000 at Cherbourg, which was rushed to Paris. The Aquitania, due today, will bring $10,000,000 in gold from America.

En route to Europe are the Majestic, carrying $10,000,000; Stuttgart, with $6,000,000, and the Ile De France, with $7,000,000.

The Voldendam is taking $10,000,000 in gold to Holland, while the Rotterdam brought to Amsterdam $6,000,000 in $20-gold pieces.

Ten other big gold shipments from New York to Europe, draining on America's supply of about $5,000,000,000 of the precious metal, are planned for this month.

BIG BIRD BUMPS DOWN AND SPRAWLS OUT TO REST

This is how a big plane looks after it has battled across the Pacific ocean from Japan to Washington State. Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, the plucky fliers, dropped their landing wheels at the start, so they had to pick a soft spot and sneak up on it to make any kind of a landing. The big bird bogged, tipped up on her nose and then settled back. She is only slightly damaged and the boys weren't bothered by condition of plane.

It was the first time the little town had taken on any fame to go with its reputation as a place where good apples grow. (International Newsreel telephoto to Boston American.)

BOAT BURNS AND FIRES BRIDGE

Portsmouth, N. H., Oct. 6 (AP)—Coast guard officials reported today that fire which threatened to destroy a Boston & Maine railroad bridge last night was caused by an explosion aboard a disabled rum running craft.

Today, guardsmen from the Portsmouth harbor station unloaded more than 300 cases of liquors from the powerboat Ann, beached near Kittery. Its crew of two escaped.

Officials said the craft experienced motor trouble and drifted downstream. When it struck the piling the gasoline exploded and the fire spread to the bridge.

Leaders Arrested in London Jobless Riot

London, Oct. 6 (AP)—Disturbances broke out again today among the unemployed. Several hundred in a parade threw firecrackers among mounted police. The horses stampeded and there was a near panic in the crowded streets.

The police formed ranks again, drew clubs and charged, making several arrests of leaders.

The marchers were permitted to continue to Hyde Park for a meeting.

PURSE CLUE TO LOST RICH JAP

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—A wallet bearing in gold letters the name of Hisashi Fujimura, a Japanese importer, who disappeared from the liner Belgenland at sea, has been turned over to police.

Irving Babisch, an electrician, while walking through a hallway in a West 35th st. tenement house discovered the wallet. He remembered the Japanese importer's name and took the wallet to police late last night. It was empty.

The Japanese, in company with Mrs. Mary Dale Von Reissner, went on a Halifax cruise, taking his little daughter with them. He disappeared on the last night of the cruise. Federal authorities and police have conducted futile investigations regarding his disappearance.

JAP REASSURES U. S. CONSUL

Nanking, Oct. 6 (AP)—A tense feeling between Japanese and Chinese over the Manchurian situation today led American Consul General Peck and British Cosul General Moss to confer with the Japanese consul general for safety of their nationals.

Shown newspaper reports that the Shanghai Japanese Chamber of Commerce had demanded positive action by Tokio to combat the anti-Japanese boycott in China, the Japanese consul general said that if necessary he would evacuate all Japanese, including the consular staff here, to avoid a clash.

Meantime a dispatch from Tokio said the government had determined to send reinforcements to Shanghai to protect Japanese there and that a large number of warships were ready to sail in case of emergency.

PARENTS' BLOOD PARALYSIS AID

New York, Oct. 6—Injection of a parent's blood into the body of the child is a scientific means of preventing infantile paralysis in the child.

This is affirmed by Dr. William H. Park, director of the department of health laboratories of New York city, one of the foremost authorities on infectious diseases and their immunities.

Recently Dr. Simon Flexner, director of the Rockefeller Institute for medical research, pointed out many adults carry in their blood substances which prevent infantile paralysis.

This is construed to mean that these persons had some mild infection of this disease, and since no ailment ensued, they were unaware of the infection.

FISH CALLS FOR BILLION LOAN

Washington, Oct. 6—Congressional authorization for a $1,000,000,000 bond issue to provide jobs for the unemployed today was demanded by Representative Hamilton Fish (R.) of New York.

With a huge federal bond issue as suggested by William Randolph Hearst, the public works program could be greatly expanded and provide much employment, Fish said.

Communist agitators are mobilizing to foment industrial strife during the winter, according to Fish, who was chairman of the special House committee which investigated Communists' activities in the United States.

Disturbances such as occurred in Glasgow, Scotland, will be duplicated here unless the federal, state and municipal governments provide work for the unemployed, he predicted.

Story of Beautiful Aztec Queen Is Told

Mexico City, Oct. 6 (AP)—An Aztec queen of great beauty, goodness and energy has emerged from an ancient document written in Aztec by a Spanish priest. It tells how Mateutli, ruling the Cholula district when the Spanish conquerors arrived, was converted and christened Maria. The story has been translated by Prof. Mariano Reyes of the staff of the National Museum of Archaeology and History.

Safety Drive Clips 400 of Licenses

The safety drive put into effect last Tuesday by Registrar of Motor Vehicles Ryan, assumed major importance when it was disclosed that yesterday more than 400 licenses and registrations had been revoked.

This exceeds by a large number any revocations of either licenses or plates in the history of the registry for a single day. As explained by officials of the registry, it is but the accumulation of two days' work by the registry inspectors.

3 SAFES ROBBED IN DANVERS

Danvers, Oct. 6—For the second time within two months safe crackers visited the waterfront section of the city early today and blew three safes, from which they are believed to have obtained about $1000.

In the office of the Harry C. Rix Coal Co. a large safe was blown open and money and papers taken. A half mile away two safes were forced in the office of the Calvin Putnam Lumber Co., both being looted. Checkups are being made to determine the losses.

Five weeks ago the safe in the office of the Leader Oil Co., across the street from the Rix Coal Co., was robbed of $1400.

ARCH GANGSTER ADMITS HE'S WORRIED

Only Trumpets Are Lacking to Make Gunman's Entrance Comic; Jury Being Drawn

Chicago, Oct 6—"Scarface Al" Capone, the swarthy, smiling ruler of Chicago's gangs, went on trial in United States district court today in an opening session that was as theatrical as it was significant.

Charged with evading taxes on an alleged six-year income of $1,038,654, the burly gang chieftain was brought before Judge James H. Wilkerson and permitted to substitute "not guilty" for the "guilty" plea he recently withdrew. The first duty was the selection of a jury.

For the Government it was the crucial test of its campaign against Chicago gangsters. Others had been tried and others convicted, but this time it was the "Big Fellow" himself, the man whose name is synonymous with "gangs" all over the world.

The government, throwing all of its resources into the battle, did not attempt to hide the fact that this was its most important gangster case.

For Capone it was a gamble. He once had pleaded guilty to the charge, but when Judge Wilkerson announced he would not be bound by any agreement for leniency and

HOOVER O. K.'S VETS' PARLEY

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—President Hoover today approved plans for a seven-day conference of veterans' administration officials here designed to procure economy and expedite "direct relief to the veterans of all wars."

The conference will begin Oct. 26.

Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, said after a conference at the White House the move was also to devise "ways and means to simplify the procedure of the combined activities represented in the veterans' administration."

The American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Disabled American Veterans of the World War, Hines said, would be invited with managers of the veterans' administration field activities.

GAS FUMES FELL 24 FIREMEN

New York, Oct 6 (INS)—Twenty-four firemen, including Deputy Fire Chief David Kidney, were overcome by gas fumes today while fighting a store blaze in uptown New York. For a time the life of one fireman was despaired of and the last rites of the church were administered as the man lay in the street.

The fumes were believed sulphur dioxide gas, flowing from a refrigerator plant in the store, a 5-and-10 cent company located on Sixth ave. between 50th and 51st sts.

BANKERS CALL CREDIT OF U. S. 'STRONGEST'

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 6 (AP)—America's bankers today launched an assault on the nation's economic problems.

Criticizing critics of the banking structure and pleading for a perspective picture of a serious situation the economic policy commission of the American Bankers Association presented its report to the first general session of the association's convention.

The report is not voted on by the convention, but bankers take it to represent the views of financial men and regard it as particularly important at this time.

"In common with the rest of the world our country is being forced to face many serious problems, but American credit is still the strongest in the world," the report said.

"We hold in this country a large part of the world's monetary gold. It is still fundamentally true that where the gold is, the strength lies.

"The facts are that while four per cent of the banks as to numbers, were permanently or temporarily closed in the first eight months of the year, some 96 per cent were not involved and furthermore that only 1.2 per cent of the deposits were tied, which means that almost 99 per cent were not affected."

He Pockets 9 Tags, Forgets Them, But It Costs $70

James H. Mullay of Morris ave., Brighton, forgot all about nine parking tags after he had put them in his pocket, but his memory was jogged today in traffic court when Judge Francis T. Good fined him a total of $70.

Officer John T. Clifford of the Lagrange st. station told Judge Good that he had placed the nine tags on Mullay's car between April and July and that none of them had been returned.

"I just put them in my pocket and forgot them," Mullay testified.

NAVY TO DROP 3000 MEN

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—Secretary Adams is prepared to reduce the navy personnel by slightly more than 3000 to meet President Hoover's demand for expenditure cuts eneral Motors, told the American discussed today, would be cut by 600 or 700 men. The President wants 1933 estimates for the navy sliced from $401,000,000 to $340,000,000.

The personnel reduction would be made through curtailment of fleet activities, under which one-fifth of the vessels would be kept out of commission under a rotation plan.

A consequent curtailment of activities would result at various shore stations.

WRIT SOUGHT IN SCHOOL TRIAL

A writ of mandamus asking the Supreme Court to compel officers of the Fisher, Inc., school for mannequins, to produce their books for examination was sought today by Miss Catherine Raftery of Chestnut Hill ave., Brighton, and Miss Alice Waters of Dow st., Somerville.

Atty. W. F. Mackernan, counsel for the Misses Raftery and Waters, declared the girls were shareholders in the corporation and should be allowed to examine the books.

Counsel for Miss Maude W. Fisher, proprietor of the school, said the books were necessary in his defense of Miss Fisher in the case, which will be heard tomorrow in municipal court.

Judge William O. Wait continued the hearing until Friday pending municipal court action.

Miss Fisher pleaded not guilty to two charges of larceny and a charge of misappropriation of corporation funds when she appeared before Judge Francis J. Goode in Municipal court last week. She was released on $300 bail until tomorrow.

Misses Raftery and Waters charged that they were mulcted of nearly $500 in the purchase of stock and the investment in a mannequin catalog which never appeared.

disadvantage in competition with other ports.

In reply, union leaders asserted that notwithstanding the hourly pay rate of 85 cents, with $1.20 for overtime, the average longshoreman's remuneration is only $15 a week.

3 LINES MAY GO

"Empty threats" was the retort of these leaders to announcement by the operators that five big steamship lines were ready to withdraw from this port unless peace were made promptly.

The peace parley went into session at the Boston Grain and Flour Exchange, after a morning conference of steamship operators exclusively. Among the latter were several agents who had not attended previous meetings.

Police boat Stephen J. O'Meara is being kept on patrol along the docks.

Forty officers were standing guard at Commonwealth pier, where strikebreakers and union longshoremen are working near at hand.

The police had a "pup wagon" with tear bombs, gas guns, riot guns, clubs and other equipment for an emergency. Deputy Superintendent McDevitt was in charge.

About 100 strikebreakers started work this morning loading the Susan Luckenbach for Pacific ports, while 200 union men were loading American-Hawaiian line vessels on the opposite side of the dock.

SAYS PAY UNJUST

Although officially ending at 5 p. m. today, the truce, it was disclosed, is viewed by the steamship company representatives as in force until midnight.

"There should be no misunderstanding as to the position of the steamship lines in this controversy," said the operators' statement, issued by John N. Levins, agent here for the American-Hawaiian line and chairman of their committee.

"The burden of excessive stevedoring costs has for many years made the services to and from this port unprofitable.

"These high costs are due to so-called working rules carefully designed to build up the payroll, not to lessen physical hardship or abuse as claimed by the men.

"Similar rules do not exist in the competitive North Atlantic ports of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Norfolk.

APPROVED BY RYAN

"The men have been offered the equivalent of the working rules in force at those other ports, rules which Joseph P. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, has characterized as eminently fair and just to the men.

"The Boston longshoremen refuse to accept them. In deference to the Governor's request, work has been continued by several of the lines with union longshoremen, and will be until midnight tonight."

Union longshoremen were working at high speed at several docks today, apparently bent on demonstrating their greater efficiency than the comparatively slow strikebreakers.

MILL STRIKE SPREADS

creating the most serious situation since the big tie-up 20 years ago.

The Arlington mill was the only large plant even partially operating. About 2500 are employed there and approximately 3000 in a number of smaller, independent mills.

Unless the proposed wage reduction is revoked by Saturday, the strike will have the sanction of the United Textile Workers of America, with which most of the workers are affiliated, and a general strike of 25,000 mill hands will be official.

Announcement that the United Textile Workers would sanction the walk-out was received from Francis J. Gorman, acting president, at Providence.

There exists a peculiar condition that increase the seriousness of the present situation.

The planned wage reduction is the only grievance of the workers, yet it has solidified the protests of three separate labor organizations which in the past have worked at cross-purposes.

The United group, in the majority and affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, is the conservative element.

COMMUNISTS ACTIVE.

The National Textile Workers' Union, claiming several thousand members is the Communist group.

The third organization is the American Textile Workers' Union, composed solely of workers at the Pacific mills.

The latter group was expected to arbitrate the wage cut with mill officials but the workers refused to remain on the job when officials declined to suspend the wage reduction until the completion of arbitration.

The upper branch of the Pacific mill, the Arlington mill and the George E. Kunhardt plant, a small mill employing 200 workers were scenes of disorder. All available police were on duty or held in reserve and 160 were on guard in the mill district.

A group of strikers invaded the worsted branch of the Pacific mill and tried to shut off the power running the looms. Guards called police and nine arrests were made for intimidation and trespass.

Two riot calls were turned in when groups of jeering strikers appeared at mills still in operation.

One such group massed outside the Arlington mill during the lunch hour and was held responsible by officials for the failure of 2500 of their operatives to return to work.

Another group went to the Kunhardt mill and was dispersed by police.

About 15 unidentified youths stoned the worsted unit of the Pacific company and broke a dozen windows. No arrests were made there.

The difficulties were apparently at an impasse, with the unions determined to accept no wage cut and the mill operators equally determined to put one in effect or shut down indefinitely.

At the Wood mill where, yesterday the first walkout occurred, less than 500 of the 5500 employes entering the plant, Agent Walter M. Lamont ordered the power not turned on and those who reported were dismissed for the day.

WARNING BY SCHULZE

Only 150 of the 2000 employes of the Ayer mill reported at their posts. Agent Emil J. C. Schulze dismissed them and then, outside the plant, made a dramatic appeal to several thousand strikers to go back to their posts.

"Come in and go back to work," he told them. "You will be the losers if you don't."

They were deaf to his entreaty; not a striker made a move toward the open mill gate, and it was closed.

Nearly half of the 5000 workers at the Washington Mill reported for work, but Agent Ernest Johnson said it was impossible to operate and they joined the groups outside.

At Shawsheen, all of the 1200 hands were at their posts at the starting hour, but 55 minutes later, on a given signal, they deserted their machines and a few minutes later poured from the factory.

PRISONER FINED

Seven of the nine strikers who invaded the Pacific mill were fined from $5 to $25 for trespass and intimidation. The other two were juveniles.

Those fined were Sabastian Tatore, of Methuen st.; Salvatore Tatore of Common st.; Salvatore Salafia of Essex st.; Michael Batternoster of Elm st.; Dominco Franko of Chestnut st.; Fred Pelligrino of Maplel st. and Raymond Di Martino of Stevens ct.

Announcement that official sanction would be given the strike on Saturday unless the workers' demands for cancellation of the wage cut are met was received from Providence.

Gorman, vice-president of the United Textile Workers and its acting president while Thomas F. McMahon is attending the American Federation of Labor convention at Vancouver, said:

"The 25,000 mill workers in Lawrence will be called out on Saturday if the wage reduction is not withdrawn at that time."

BOTH SIDES DEFIANT

The seriousness of the situation lies not only in the unbending attitude of both sides but the fact that the strike involves the conservative majority element affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, as well as the radical union group.

The United Textile Workers of America, affiliated with the A. F. of L., holds the membership of a majority of the strikers. The radical group, the National Textile Workers' Union, led by Edith Berkman, red agitator, claims responsibility for the start of the walkout yesterday.

The present situation is far different from that of the shutdown last February. That walkout was sponsored solely by the minority Communist group, but in their present grievance the workers have the support of the United Textile Workers.

James Tomacchio of Methuen, arrested on an intimidation charge during yesterday's disturbance, was fined $50 in court. Charles Bonaccoarsi, 17, arrested at the same time, was placed on probation.

Drys Should Change Tactics, Says Leader

Wichita, Kan., Oct. 6 (AP)—Dr. James A. Crain, Indianapolis temperance leader, believes prohibitionists should change their tactics. He said today:

"They educated the people to gain prohibition and now they must resort to the printed page, to cartoons, leaflets and pamphlets, to scientists, doctors and teachers in the public schools to maintain it."

Former Officer Dead

Westerly, R. I., Oct. 6—Timothy H. O'Leary, 70, retired New York police lieutenant, is dead here.

'BOSSY' GILLIS WHIPPED AGAIN

Newburyport, Oct. 6—No luck at all is Mayor Andrew J. ("Bossy") Gillis having in his jousts with President Eugene Twomey of the City Council — the red-headed mayor being bested by Twomey at the City Council meeting while the rest of the councillors grinned.

Only last Saturday Gillis and Twomey were in court as the result of a street corner fight and the mayor paid a $10 fine while Twomey had his case filed.

While the City Council was meeting last night Mayor Gillis asked for a transfer of $200 from City Council funds to the city collector to pay for an extra clerk in the treasurer's office to take care of a payroll on street construction work.

When the Council began to take a vote Gillis stood up and attempted to talk on the order, but was ruled out of order and told to sit down.

"Oh, yeah?" remarked the red-headed mayor. "Well, I'm going to speak anyway."

President Twomey ordered two policemen on duty in the council chamber "to sit the mayor down," but the policemen made no move.

Then ignoring Gillis, who was still talking in defiance of the order, the councillors proceeded to vote. They were half way through, when "Bossy," seeing that he was getting no attention, sat down in disgust.

The vote resulted in a five to five tie and all present cast their eyes expectantly at President Twomey. Twomey cast the deciding vote—killing the Mayor's order for the extra clerk.

City Councillor Bernard Jacobs, moving to the next business, then introduced an order requesting the chagrined mayor to transfer $1400 from the "excess and deficit" account to the Middle, Fair and Water sts. appropriation.

CURTIUS QUITS GERMAN POST

Berlin, Oct. 6 (AP)—Foreign Minister Julius Curtius, whose policies have been the center of repeated political storms, today submitted his resignation to Chancellor Bruening. Official circles understood it would be accepted.

Curtius' withdrawal was considered as a removal of one of the difficult obstacles facing Chancellor Bruening in obtaining the parliamentary support the government will need when the Reichstag convenes Oct. 13.

With the Social Democrats restless over wage reductions, the continual outbursts of dissatisfaction with Curtius from parties supporting the government made the cabinet's position acutely embarrassing.

The boots one cobbler built

In a Missouri town recently a hale and hearty old man of 97 was discovered wearing a pair of boots he bought 71 years ago—and still in fine shape. They have lasted all this time, their owner says, because the boots were "built on honor," by a cobbler who was "master of his trade." We like to feel that the steady growth, over many years, of Boston's loyal clientele of homes and businesses is a tribute to a product "built on honor," by a Company that strives always to be "master of its trade."

Constance Bennett Heads Cast for Film Based on Diplomatic Service

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service
(Copyright, 1931, by Universal Service)

Chicago, Oct. 6—Do you know what cryptography means? I looked it up in the dictionary and according to Noah Webster, no less, it means the art of writing in secret characters. Constance Bennett is to make a picture based on cryptography in which the secret diplomatic service and current events in Russia are featured.

Louella O. Parsons

Charles Rogers and his staff seem all "het" up over this cryptography number. E. H. Griffith who heretofore has contented himself to be a good director, has furnished the idea for Miss Bennett. All I know, the story has a background of international politics in America and Europe with national crises figuring. So far, it's without a name.

Charles Whittaker is writing the adaptation with Albert Shelby Levino as co-adapter. Moreover, Charlie Rogers is bringing Herbert O. Yardley, author of "The American Black Chamber" to Los Angeles to assist in the preparation of the picture.

It all sounds complicated, but Charlie Rogers usually comes through so we will try not let the word cryptography frighten us.

Seen and Heard

There is an active report in Hollywood that Sylvia Sidney will be replaced by Miriam Hopkins in "The Miracle Man." Hope it is a false alarm but the one who gave me the yarn says Paramount executives think it is unnecessary to have two headliners in one picture. Gary Cooper, in other words, does not need another star. Peggy Shannon departed Friday night for New York via Southern Pacific for a vacation. Edna Murphy who has been living quietly at Malibu since her separation from Mervyn Leroy has a part in "The Dove." There is a strong rumor that Edna is finding solace in Ralph Ince's Company.

Ear to the ground we hear that Paramount is putting Jeanette MacDonald on a contract when she returns from Europe. Jeanette will not only have the lead opposite Chevalier in "One Hour With You," but she will furnish the song and the love interest in "The Three Musketeers," which Maurice will do when he completes "One Hour With You." With Ruth Chatterton and Kay Francis headliners on the Warner Brothers' program next year, there is nothing much else for Paramount to do but plan a campaign for the actresses who remain on the lot.

News of interest is Carl Laemmle Senior's return visit to New York. He leaves next Thursday and does not expect to be back until Thanksgiving. He dislikes leaving his grandchild, Carole Bergerman, because he says she forgets him from time to time. William Haines has a 260-pound leading lady playing opposite him in his vaudeville sketch. Speaking of pounds, Ferdinand Munier, a 287-pound character comedian, has been placed under a long term contract by Fox. His next picture is "Stepping Sisters."

The report is that Clark Gable will have the role that Ralph Morgan created on the stage in Winchell Smith's play.

MORROW RITES AT ENGLEWOOD TOMORROW

Englewood home until shortly before 3 p. m., although there were reports that he had passed away in certain Wall Street circles and leading New York clubs.

These rumors probably were due to hurried messages sent to members of the senator's family, including his famous son-in-law and daughter, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh now in China, and to other relatives throughout this country.

Mr. Morrow was only 58. He was apparently in excellent health Sunday night when he made an address before the American Federation of Jewish Societies appealing for funds to carry on the work for that organization.

President Shocked at News of Death

Washington, Oct. 6.—President Hoover returned home last night visibly grieved over the death of his personal friend and advisor, Senator Dwight W. Morrow.

He had been in Philadelphia where he took a general delight in the third World Series game. The news was received during the fifth inning, but withheld until the President boarded the train. He said:

"I am deeply shocked.

"The country has suffered a great loss in the death of Senator Dwight W. Morrow. His loyal and courageous character as a neighbor and a friend; his public service as a citizen; his service during the war; his accomplishments as ambassador to Mexico; his unqualified contribution to the success of the London naval armaments conference are the record of that sort of an American who makes our country great."

The President had expected to have Senator Morrow as a week-end guest to discuss armaments. He was a dinner guest at the White House only last Friday and usually stayed there when in Washington.

Flags in the capital were lowered to half-mast in tribute to the late senator.

Discussion here of a possible successor to Senator Morrow turned to Franklin W. Fort, former representative, who was defeated for the Republican nomination last year by Senator Morrow. He is a warm personal friend of the President and was frequently his spokesman when in the House.

Secretary Mellon, who had great confidence in the financial advice of Morrow, declared the senator's death was a "public calamity."

Senator Borah of Idaho characterized Morrow's death as "a great national loss in the deepest sense."

Bay State Political Leaders Laud Sen. Morrow

Political leaders of both parties in Massachusetts joined today in a tribute to Senator Dwight W. Morrow.

At Northampton, ex-President Calvin Coolidge sent the following message to Mrs. Morrow:

"The announcement of the death of your distinguished husband, Dwight Whitney Morrow, has brought an inexpressible sorrow to all of us who had the privilege to know him. He was a true friend, a distinguished and sincere public servant and a doer of good deeds. He never faltered in performing what he believed to be his duty. He always rose superior to events. As he passes into history the country will be consoled in its loss by the memory of his service to his fellow men."

Senator Marcus A. Coolidge said:

"In the passing of Senator Morrow the country loses a distinguished statesman. His untimely death is a great loss to the nation, and his advice and counsel will be missed in the United States Senate. I am expressing my personal sympathy in a telegram to his family."

Mayor Curley said:

"America and the world suffer the loss of a leader, the character and quality of whose leadership they can ill afford to lose. As a public official he was an unusual and refreshing departure in that he typified a rare combination of ability and courage. His passing will be mourned by every forward-looking American, and the sorrow that goes into the household of his wife and children is shared by the nation."

Former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald:

"The death of Senator Dwight W. Morrow is a distinct national loss. He was one of the few big business men who was willing to give up a business career to go into political life with all its drudgery and dissatisfaction.

"He accomplished notable results in Mexico and was entitled to the gratitude of the people of this country and Mexico. Senator Morrow's death is particularly unfortunate at this time when the world needs men of his experience in the banking line and world business."

Frank W. Stearns, intimate friend of Calvin Coolidge:

"The sudden passing of Dwight Morrow comes as so personal a sorrow that it is not possible for me to attempt to appraise the value of his service to his country. From his student days at Amherst College through his career as a lawyer, financial adviser, diplomat, and as a United States senator of brilliant promise, he had always been doing things superlatively well."

Morrow Memorial Service on the Air Tonight

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—A half-hour program in memory of Senator Dwight W. Morrow of New Jersey will be broadcast at 9:30 tonight over station WOR, it was announced today.

The station said efforts were being made to have President Ortiz Rubio of Mexico deliver an address by long-distance telephone from Mexico City, to be rebroadcast.

Among the speakers will be Joaquin Terrazas, acting consul-general for Mexico in New York city, and former Supreme Court Justice Joseph M. Proskauer. In recognition of Senator Morrow's services in military organization during the World War, the Rev. J. K. Bodel, army chaplain from Governor's Island, will offer a prayer and a corps of army buglers will sound "taps."

Poor Ol' Grandma Forgot Her Gun

—By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER—

When New York cancelled 185,000 gun permits it sort of gave this state a bad name.

Sounds like a lot of gunmen. But we're proud to say that it ain't as bad as you thought.

Some of the boys carried two and three. And a bird captured on Long Island brought the ratio way down. He was packing seven.

So you can see we are really a peaceful community. Kind to the old folks, courteous to strangers and just adore babies and flowers.

Those 185,000 pistols were not a sign of lawlessness. They just came in handy in case somebody spoke out of turn or criticized the wallpaper.

Why, we almost missed that lecture on porcelain of the Ming Dynasty at town hall last night because grandma had to run back home for her luger automatic.

The old gal is getting absent-minded.

LINDBERGH MAY CUT TRIP FOR HOME SHORT

Shanghai, Oct. 6 (INS)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived tonight on the British airplane carrier Hermes, having been informed en route by wireless of the death of Senator Dwight W. Morrow, Mrs. Lindbergh's father.

The first information which reached Mrs. Lindbergh of her father's death was contained in a message from the British naval radio station here, but she subsequently received, through the American legation at Peiping, a telegram from her mother, announcing the death briefly and suggesting that she and her husband should make no change in their plans.

Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh last saw Senator Morrow in July, when they left the United States for their aerial tour of the Orient.

Both suffering the deepest grief, the Lindberghs came ashore in a launch from the Hermes, and gave no indication of their immediate plans, although there was a belief here that their visit was likely to be cut short and they would return to the United States at an early date.

All arrangements to welcome the Lindberghs to Shanghai and for their entertainment here were cancelled by the civil and diplomatic authorities.

French Leaders Join in Sending Condolences

Paris, Oct. 6 (AP)—Premier Laval and Foreign Minister Briand today sent personal telegrams of condolence to the widow of Dwight W. Morrow in Englewood, N. J.

The Government also conveyed its regrets to the American government and instructed its charge d'affaires to express its sentiments to President Hoover.

All Mexico Mourns the Loss of Their "Friend"

Mexico City, Oct. 6 (AP)—Mexico mourned Dwight W. Morrow today as a diplomat, a student of human nature and, above all, as a friend.

The news of his death brought expressions of regret from Mexicans in all walks of life. The American embassy was visited by a steady line of persons to present condolences. Telephone calls and telegrams poured in from the city and other parts of the country.

Highly esteemed for his ability, sincerity and rare understanding of Mexicans and their problems, demonstrated during his term as American ambassador, Mr. Morrow was unanimously referred to as one of Mexico's greatest friends.

The Senate held a special session to draw up a note of regret to the American Senate.

Amherst Names Three for Morrow's Funeral

Amherst, Oct. 6 (AP)—Charles A. Andrews, treasurer of Amherst College and a classmate of Senator Dwight W. Morrow in the famous class of 1895; Frederick S. Allis, secretary of the college board of trustees on which Senator Morrow had served since 1916, and one member of the faculty will represent the college at the funeral of Senator Morrow tomorrow.

The college opens Thursday and it is expected that the students will participate in some form of memorial to be arranged as a tribute to the man who has for so long been a benefactor of the institution.

Japanese Premier Shocked by Death

Tokyo, Oct. 6 (AP)—Premier Wakatsuki of Japan, who became a firm friend of Dwight W. Morrow while both were delgates of their respective nations to the London naval conference said today:

"News of Mr. Morrow's death came as a great shock. He was one of my best friends when I was staying in London. I cannot help expressing my profoundest condolences to his family."

CARDINALS OFF TO AN EARLY LEAD

THE MOST IMPORTANT NEWS EVENT of Monday was the sudden and dramatic death of United States Senator Dwight W. Morrow. The death of this famous man came without the slightest warning, either to his family or to the newspapers. Yet the Boston Evening American brought the tragic news to the people of Greater Boston by an extra edition within a few minutes of the announcement of his death. It was anywhere from an hour to several hours before readers of other newspapers received this vitally interesting and important news. In the same extra edition appeared the reports of the World Series game right up to press time, and several other important and exclusive news items.

This notable scoop on the death of Senator Morrow was another illustration of the oft-repeated slogan of the Evening American, "YOU ALWAYS GET THE BIG NEWS FIRST IN THE AMERICAN."

Among recent big picture scoops have been telephoto pictures of the series games, suspects held in the Collings case, also by telephoto, and scores of exclusive Boston news pictures.

It is this continuity of scoops and complete presentation of the day's big news in brief, interesting style, plus the many exclusive features and famous writers, that has given the Evening American such a tremendous circulation lead over any of its evening contemporaries.

BOSTON AMERICAN COOKING SCHOOL

Another Lesson Tomorrow

Cooking School Opens at Statler Ballroom

Once we often heard of the mother who gave her children doughnuts for breakfast, doughnuts for lunch, and doughnuts for dinner because she did not know how to cook. But those days are past.

Martha Lee

There is no longer any excuse for feeding children foods lacking in nutrition or appetite appeal. There are too many opportunities to learn how to run homes efficiently and to feed families wisely.

KITCHEN ON STAGE

The free cooking school directed by trained women makes it possible for all women to gain as much knowledge as they wish without spending any money for it.

Those are days of enlightenment. Women realize that well-balanced meals, properly prepared, tastefully flavored and appetizingly served, save family health and make for happiness in the home.

Mrs. J. Watson Schockley and Martha Lee have completed arrangements for the big Boston American Cooking School, which opens this afternoon, at 2 o'clock, in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Statler. A handsome kitchen has been built on the stage.

There is a range which bakes to perfection, a sturdy refrigerator which keeps the food chilled to delicious frosty coldness and dozens of large and small devices intended to save time or take the hard work out of housework.

DISTRIBUTE RECIPES

Mrs. Shockley begins her discussion and cooking lessons promptly at 2 o'clock. She will make a number of dishes, explaining every move, telling why the various ingredients are added, what they are and why we want and need them as food. Recipes are printed on the leaflets to be distributed to every woman as she enters the hall. Additional recipes are to be given from the platform, and there will be a flood of helpful clever suggestions. So pencils and notebooks should be brought along by the women who attend the school.

Mrs. Schockley

The Boston Evening American is happy to invite not only the brides and young housekeepers of Greater Boston to hear Mrs. Schockley, but the older and more experienced homemakers are also urged to attend. For them, especially the women with old-fashioned kitchens, the display of new furnishings and discussion of the newest in homemaking methods will prove especially interesting.

No tickets are required. There is no admission fee. There are no reserved seats.

MANY PRIZES

When the lecture and cooking is finished, the women are to be invited to examine the equipment and the dishes prepared by Mrs. Shockley. A few lucky women will carry home these dishes. Some others will receive filled market baskets, a number of which will be distributed every afternoon of the school. One or more of the grand prizes will be awarded at each session.

Donations from various merchants are to be distributed to the school members on Friday at the last session.

Women who entertain a great deal, and who are seeking new ideas in table decoration and menu making, will find Mrs. Shockley a source of information and inspiration. Questions may be written on blanks and left in the question box. Mrs. Shockley will answer them during the session.

Troops Rushed to Cadiz

Cadiz, Spain, Oct. 6 (US)—Federal troops were rushed to Cadiz last night where syndicalist roof snipers and troops and civil guards met in a series of brushes, wounding eight.

CRISCO MAKES TASTE KEEN

You will notice that Mrs. Shockley uses Crisco in her demonstrations at the Martha Lee Cooking School. Both Martha Lee and Mrs. Shockley definitely place the seal of approval on this pure vegetable cooking fat, so wholesome and sweet for all kinds of cooking, from breads and pastries to your most delicate of cakes.

You will find that it brings a newer and sweeter taste to fish and chicken fried in it, too, and even the most delicate digestions need have no fear of bad results. The fried foods you love may now be yours.

You will always see Crisco featured in the Martha Lee Cooking Schools.

CAKE MIXING EASY NOW

Do you remember how you and your brother and your sister and all the other members of the family took turns at helping mother mix sponge cakes? Sponge cake is just as good today as it was back in the days of our childhood, but how seldom we make it. Why? Because good sponge cake must be well beaten. The lucky woman who wins the Sunbeam Mixer which will be given by the C. F. Hovey Co. at the Martha Lee Cooking School at the Hotel Statler, will never have to struggle with a sponge cake again.

The Sunbeam Mixer is a sturdy, automatic beater which runs quietly and smoothly and which, without effort on the part of the user, mixes just about everything the housewife has had to mix by hand in the past.

Symphony in Silver for Lucky Housewife

How we all respond to the soft gleam of silver! Whoever sees the new "Symphony" pattern, just produced by Towle, must long to own it, and now here may be your chance.

The Thomas H. Long Jewelry Company, at whose Summer st. windows most of us have lingered with longing eyes at some time or other, has just delighted us with news that they are going to give a dozen of the new "Symphony" sterling silver teaspoons as their offering to some lucky visitor at the Martha Lee Cooking School in the Hotel Statler.

The "Symphony" pattern is particularly lovely, with graceful, sweeping lines and of the slender fashion which so perfectly expresses the modern version of early American ideas.

Long's are among the first jewelers to stock this new Towle pattern, and we are particularly happy to be able to announce their gift of a dozen of these spoons.

Oil Burner Prize at Cooking Class

The Lynn Products Company, manufacturer of the Lynn Range Oil Burner, has given Martha Lee one of these oil burners to present to some woman who will attend the Martha Lee Cooking School at the Hotel Statler this week.

Thousands of homes are finding the Lynn Range Oil Burner an economical and satisfactory cooking range.

Today, in the real estate columns of the Classified Ads, you will find scores of opportunities for profitable investment.

MUELLER MACARONI

THE end of a ham or joint of beef, and other things that have little appetite appeal, can be transformed into a meal that you'll be proud to serve to guests—if you follow the simple directions in the Mueller Recipe Book.

Because of the special tastiness of Mueller's Macaroni, you can use it in recipes that would be a failure with less appetizing brands. Mueller's Macaroni is different because it is made differently, by special Mueller processes, from the heart of the wheat, the most nutritious part.

Not only is it more tasty—it also cooks up better—lighter and "fluffier"—after 9 minutes' boiling. Although exceptionally nutritious, it is the most digestible food you can serve.

Buy a package—as a test. Your grocer has Mueller's, or can get it for you.

The Coffee you like best ...is the best!

EIGHT O'CLOCK . . lb. 19c
—mild and mellow—blended for those who like a delicate flavorful coffee.

RED CIRCLE . . . lb. 25c
—a blend for those who want a coffee with a rich, full-bodied flavor.

BOKAR . . . . . . lb. tin 29c
—a blend with an unusually exquisite aroma and flavor.

THERE is no set standard for judging which coffee is best. It is entirely a matter of personal opinion . . . of individual taste . . . . It is significant, however, that A&P's three famous blends, EIGHT O'CLOCK . . . RED CIRCLE . . . BOKAR, satisfy more coffee lovers than any other coffee in the world.

Each of these blends possesses a different and distinctive flavor all its own. And each is a blend of the finest quality coffees that the world produces. We suggest that you try them . . . all three of them, for we are confident that you will find one of them to be "the coffee you like best."

BAKING POWDER HAS MANY FOOD USES

We are hearing a great deal these days about vitamins. These mysterious things are named A, B, C and D. Vitamin D is particularly interesting though invisible. Vitaman D enters our bodies through exposure to the sun's rays and is found most often in cod liver oil.

Vitamin D, in connection with the calcium phosphate found in our favorite all-phosphate baking powder, builds strong bones and teeth and helps develop healthy nerve tissues.

FOOD VALUE

It has been proved there is as much food phosphate in biscuit made with Rumford Baking Powder as there is in 1½ lamb chops, 1¾ hen's eggs, 2½ average servings of oatmeal and 1¼ glasses of milk. Naturally we don't advise you to eat baking powder instead of lamb chops, oatmeal or milk, but we do know that Rumford all-phosphate baking powder is very good for you.

Here are some Rumford hints:

In scrambled egg, add, while scrambling, a level teaspoon of Rumford to every portion of six eggs. A lighter and more tasty product will result.

IN MASHED POTATOES

In mashed potato, to every quart (2 lbs.) add a level teaspoon of Rumford while creaming. The product will be fluffy, smooth and tasty.

In making apple sauce or cranberry sauce, a level teaspoon of Rumford to every quart of fruit will enable you to use half the usual amount of sugar.

In tomato and other creamy soups, use a level teaspoon of Rumford to every pint. It improves the flavor and consistency.

In omelets and cheese souffles, a level teaspoon of Rumford added to the recipe for six eggs will give you a superior product.

In summer squash, a level teaspoon of Rumford mashed into every pound of squash will lighten the color and improve the taste.

IMPROVES FUDGE

Add two level teaspoons of Rumford to every batch of chocolate fudge, while beating. You will get a smoother, finer product.

When stewing prunes two level teaspoons of Rumford to every pound of prunes will give an improved flavor.

In mixing ice cream, to every quart of the mixture, add two level teaspoons of Rumford. The smoothness and creaminess of the product will surprise you.

"In the diet of the average American family there is a deficiency of mineral foods, chiefly phosphates and calcium," says Mrs. Shockley. "These necessary food elements are supplied by Rumford Baking Powder in scientifically adjusted proportions."

HOME SERVICE EXPERT TELLS OF COOKING

Visitors at the Fifth Annual Martha Lee Cooking School in the Hotel Statler Ballroom will hear an interesting message from Miss Daurice F. Darling, head of the Home Service Department of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company. She will tell you about the wonderful Glenwood Range with its insulated ovens and oven heat control which will be presented to one of our fortunate guests. Your chance to win this wonderful range is as good as your neighbor's, so don't fail to be on hand at every session, if possible, to get all the particulars from Miss Darling, head of the home service department of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company. There are no strings attached to this offer. The range will be given away free to some fortunate housewife.

Those of you who have attended the Martha Lee Cooking Classes at 5 Winthrop Sq., already know this fine Glenwood insulated gas range, and you will appreciate the generosity of the Glenwood Range Company in contributing one of their super-efficient ranges.

The Glenwood Range Company was a pioneer in producing a range to cook and bake all day at the same time keep the heat inside the oven where it belongs and the kitchen cool. This oven bakes food evenly on top, bottom and sides, no matter where the food is placed.

Thousands of good cooks and housekeepers advocate the all-gas kitchen; that is, a cabinet gas range with oven heat control and a modern gas water heater as its basic equipment.

It is in the item of attention that the all-gas kitchen saves most time and housework. Its three items of equipment are practically automatic in operation. There is always an ample hot water supply for all housekeeping purposes—for kitchen, laundry and bathroom, so there is no loss of time in any of these departments.

The all gas kitchen is characterized by neatness, trimness and beauty. There need be no stifiling heat, no dread of tedious toil. And best of all, kitchen time is cut short and other duties or pleasures take the place of the hours wasted in poorly equipped kitchen.

Miss Darling will explain to you the many advantages of using gas in every possible home department. She will answer your questions and help you in the solution of your housekeeping problems, for she is practical as well as efficient.

Should you prefer not to discuss your household problems in the open meetings you will attend, Miss Darling will gladly meet you in her office in the Boston Consolidated Gas Building, which is just across the way from the Hotel Statler.

CROQUETTES WITH HASH

No kitchen is completely equipped without its quota of ready-to-brown Prudence corned beef hash.

Croquettes are easily made with this ready prepared hash. To the contents of one can add one or two eggs, a tablespoon of chopped parsley, or a little finely chopped green pepper if liked, additional salt and pepper to taste, and enough soft bread crumbs to make the mixture easy to shape into croquettes.

After they are shaped and rolled in beaten egg and finely sifted bread crumbs, put them on ice for an hour, then fry in deep fat to a golden brown. Serve piping hot with brown gravy, catsup or chili sauce.

Codfish Dishes Made Real Tasty

I prophesy that everyone is going to be surprised at the delicious codfish combination that Mrs. Shockley is to make this week with Beardsley's Shredded Codfish, that delicious brand that's been famous for more than 60 years. Beardsley's codfish is made from whole sun-dried fish.

There are no pieces and no trimmings and it's easy to recognize the package from the red band around its middle. But if you think that codfish balls, cakes or croquettes are the only things that shredded codfish are good for, you're going to be mightily pleased, I know, with the other delicious dishes that Mrs. Shockley is going to make.

Cash for Kiddies in Bread Cartoons

Are your kiddies drawing cartoons on the slips found in every loaf of Hathaway Bread these days? No reason why they shouldn't share in the distribution of the $1000 in prizes for cartoons drawn on the slips inside of each Hathaway Bread wrapper.

There will be eight cartoons, a different one each week. The first one appeared September 14. Remember, this Hathaway Bread contest is for children only, and the name, address, age and the name of your school must be attached. The contest closes November 28.

Insulated De Luxe Glenwood, Style S418-EWT will be given away at the Martha Lee Cooking School

Every one attending will have a chance to win this range.

Mrs. J. Watson Shockley, feature lecturer uses an Insulated Glenwood

THE Martha Lee Cooking School which annually attracts thousands of women and is the biggest event of its kind of the year will be held October 6-7-8-9 in the Hotel Statler Ballroom.

Mrs. J. Watson Shockley, famous home economist, will conduct the school and be the feature lecturer. And to do the practical cooking which is a part of her lectures, she has chosen this Insulated Glenwood Gas Range.

Mrs. Shockley selected this range because it can be depended on for good cooking results. Every feature of its construction is designed to make success certain for everything you bake. Heavy oven insulation keeps the heat more even for better baking and to make less gas do more. Oven heat control automatically regulates the baking temperature to any degree you need for the best results. And of course it eliminates testing and oven watching and takes the "guess" out of cooking entirely.

Insta Flame Lighting

Insta Flame Lighting is a new innovation on this range that banishes the use of matches forever. The burners light themselves—automatically—the instant you turn on the gas. Now you can light the oven burner without even opening the oven door! With its smart, modern design in beautiful color combinations, its heavy oven insulation, oven heat control and Insta Flame Lighting, this range brings you the greatest beauty, convenience and cooking dependability you can buy—at a moderate price. By all means see it at your local gas company before you buy a new gas range.

ADD THESE TO YOUR LIST OF SALADS

Best cane sugar from Cuba, the Best piquant fruit vinegar from the Best blender, the Best fresh eggs from the Best farm, the Best salad oil from sunny Southern gardens, Best paprika from Austria, Best mustard from England, Best salt from Michigan and the Best of rare spices from the Orient are blended together to make Best Food's mayonnaise, and this mayonnaise is Best in one of the most important ways of all, to the modern woman. It may be eaten without fear of its fattening effect.

No longer need she whose figure has a tendency to stretch beyond the lines of fashion deny herself the delight of using mayonnaise on her favorite salad. Best Food's mayonnaise is nutritious and wholesome, and at the same time made with an eye to the woman who must guard her figure if she would keep step with modern fashion.

Here are three favorite salads from Best Food's Salad Bowl:

CHIFFONDE SALAD

Mix shredded lettuce and chiccory with a chopped pickled beet, half a cup of finely cut celery, one minced, hard-boiled egg, and anchovies, cut fine. Sprinkle with minced parsley and serve with Best Food's Mayonnaise.

STUFFED CUCUMBER

Mix finely cut celery, tomato and lobster with a few chopped nasturtium seeds. Dress with Best Food's Mayonnaise and mix thoroughly. Fill cucumber shells with the mixture, and serve on lettuce with Best Food's Mayonnaise.

SUNDAY NIGHT SALAD

Cut six hard-boiled eggs in thin slices and mix with ¼ lb. of boiled ham cut in shoe string strips. Dress with Best Food's Mayonnaise and mix. Serve ice cold on lettuce.

Ice Cream Prize at Cooking School

Mr. Klofkorn, advertising manager of the H. P. Hood Company, will present a Hood Ice Cream Cake to a guest at each session of the Martha Lee Cooking School at the Hotel Statler.

These cakes are made to order by the H. P. Hood Company and delivered in a carton packed with dry ice, which keeps the contents cold for 12 hours.

Chinese Foods for Use at Home Win Favor

No longer do you need to dress to go out to dinner when you're so tired that dressing seems hard work. You can stay home and have a Chinese meal served with all the delicious flavor that you associate with the Chinese foods you get at your favorite Chinese restaurant.

La Choy Food Products have perfected Chinese foods for home consumption. Their Chop Suey or Chow Mein melts in your mouth. Many a rainy night we have stayed home and thoroughly enjoyed a meal of La Choy Sub Kum Chicken Chop Suey or La Choy Chow Mein, made so easily and economically by recipes Martha Lee will gladly send you.

The La Choy Food Products Co. has sent us some of their products to use in the gift baskets which will be given to 100 women who attend the Boston American-Martha Lee Cooking School at the Hotel Statler.

The La Choy company is also announcing a contest which will be conducted in five divisions of two weeks each—five fortnightly competition periods. Cash awards will be announced within ten days after the close of each fortnightly competition period. All you have to do is answer one of the questions they are asking in an announcement of this prize contest. A copy of the announcement will be given to each woman attending the Hotel Statler school. You will want to try for one of these prizes, and we suggest that the best way to become acquainted with the possibilities of La Choy products is to use them in your own home.

Here's our favorite Chop Suey recipe:

MARTHA LEE'S CHOP SUEY

One-half pound lean pork, veal or lamb, 1 good-sized bunch of celery, 1 lb. of onions, cut in small pieces, keeping separate.

Fry meat very brown in a small amount of oil or fat. Spread onions over meat, spread celery over onions. Add 1 tbsp. Chinese brown sauce, 2 tbsps. Chinese soy sauce, and all the juice from a can of sprouts; cover and cook over a brisk fire for 10 minutes, then spread sprouts over all and cook for 2 minutes more.

Mix flour and water, as for a gravy, and thicken at edges. Then mix all together with spoon and remove from the fire at once. Shredded green peppers, tomatoes or pimientos may be added if desired, or diced pineapple or mushrooms.

Bankers to Discuss Financial Problems

Bankers throughout Neww England were urged by the New England Council today to join in a discussion of mutual banking problems at the second annual bank management conference to be held Oct. 16 at the Hotel Statler under the council's auspices.

The success of last year's conference was stresssed in that it afforded valuable opportunities for many bankers to learn from the experiences of others. It was pointed out that mutual help and co-operation made for increased success in banking.

MOXIE ROUTS FATIGUE

If we were to give a prize to everyone in the Martha Lee Cooking School at the Hotel Statler who has dropped down into a chair and groaned, "Oh, how tired I am," we would probably have to have just as many prizes as there will be women present!

All of us tax our energy to the utmost and then we wonder why we get that depressed, blue feeling and that sense of utter exhaustion that comes over us so suddenly. Next time you feel that way drink a glass of Moxie.

We always keep a supply in our refrigerator because we know that as soon as we drink it we feel better. Even its rich, deep red color cheers us up and its bittersweet taste with a delightful tang is wholly satisfying.

Frank Archer, the Moxie man, has put something of his own wonderful personality into this famous American drink. He has surrounded himself with a happy family of workers, who make Moxie in sunflooded rooms with cheerful scarlet stairs and tiles and a happy environment and all that's new and wonderful in equipment, which can not help but produce a healthful, refreshing beverage which is good for all of us.

A bottle of Moxie will be included in the gift bags to be given away at the Martha Lee Cooking School at the Hotel Statler this week, and there'll be a case of Moxie as a major prize given at each session.

TASTY DISHES FROM DINNER LEFTOVERS

We Americans have so many good things to eat that we have learned to expect constant variety. Let me tell you a little secret about how to change last night's leftovers to something new and delicious. Just add some Gulden's mustard to an otherwise tasteless dish and watch the family come back for second helpings.

Try some Ham Rolls made with Gulden's. Spread Gulden's mustard on slices of boiled ham about ⅛ inch thick (firm but not too thick). Place a tablespoon of baked beans on each slice, and roll. Fasten with toothpicks and heat 10 minutes in a medium oven.

And here are three other favorites vastly improved by Gulden's prepared mustard:

CHEESE GRILL

Toast bread lightly. On each piece of toast place a slice of American cheese. Spread cheese with Gulden's mustard. Cross two bacon strips on cheese and grill under low flame until bacon is crisp and cheese melted. Garnish with olive.

POT ROAST

Spread pot roast liberally with Gulden's mustard (1 tablespoon to a pound of meat). Sear in melted suet with sliced onion. Cook as any pot roast, adding vegetables desired.

LAMB STEW

2 lbs. lamb stew meat
4 carrots
4 whole onions
1 sliced onion
Salt and pepper
1 tbsp. Gulden's mustard
4 medium-sized potatoes

Wash meat and plunge in enough boiling water to cover. Reduce heat to below boiling point and add 1 onion sliced, 2 tsps. salt and a dash of pepper. After the meat has simmered for ½ hour add the carrots, cut in half, the whole onions and the potatoes. Allow to cook for 1 hour more. The stew should boil very gently for the last half hour.

Rice Krispies Ideal With Sliced Fruit for Breakfast

If you're a fortunate winner of one of the gift market baskets at the Boston Evening American Statler Cooking School, you will find a package of Rice Krispies in it.

Do you consume the well-known "sinker and coffee" in a rush and then run out for a soda at 10:30 to keep you going until lunch time? Try instead a bowl of Kellogg's Rice Krispies, dotted with fresh berries or sliced fruit, a dash of sugar and a generous portion of cool milk or cream.

Dinette Set Gift for School Member

One of the major gifts that will be awarded at the Boston American Statler Cooking School comes from the Ferdinand Furniture Company of Roxbury, Cambridge and Needham.

It is a dinette set, including a table and four chairs, made in solid maple or solid mahogany. The recipient may make her own choice.

Hood's Milk for School

Hood's milk and cream will be used by Mrs. Shockley in all her deemonstration lectures.

FOOT COMFORT IMPORTANT

"Oh how my feet ache!"

Isn't this the chorus at the end of many a woman's busiest days? And, in nine cases out of ten, can't this foot weariness be attributed wholly to her choice of shoes?

Every one who is on their feet very much is sure to welcome the new walking comfort that comes with your first pair of Constant Comfort Shoes.

Soft and flexible, they bend with every movement of the foot, and their specially designed features provide support and balance to give buoyancy to your step. These Constant Comfort shoes are the choice of Mrs. J. Watson Shockley, noted domestic science authority and lecturer at the Boston American-Martha Lee Cooking School at the Hotel Statler.

She, like so many alert busy women, says that they are a great aid to her personal efficiency, and she is delighted with the many attractive styles from which she can choose.

"A foot of comfort means miles of happiness," says Mrs. Shockley, and every one attending the four-day sessions at the Statler will, I know, admire the trim, smart appearance of this lady's feet, shod in Constant Comfort Shoes. Perhaps most interesting of all is their price of only $4.

Gentles Bread in Gift Packages

A loaf of Gentles Swedish Health Bread is included in the gift bag which will be given away free during the Martha Lee Cooking School which is in session at the Hotel Statler Ballroom this week.

The story of Gentles Swedish Health Bread is a remarkable testimonial to the good judgment of thousands of Boston housewives, who have accepted the bread and built its popularity.

"A French Chef has nothing on you"

THAT'S what your husband will say when he tastes beef loaf covered, before putting in the oven, with a paste made of Gulden's Mustard, lemon juice and salt. Not only beef loaf — but scores of other dishes take on a new, fascinating flavor when seasoned with Gulden's Mustard. It is a perfect all-in-one seasoning for your cooking.

TEA TASTING RARE ART, SAYS CONDUCTOR

Mrs. J. Watson Shockley, who is conducting the cooking school this week at the Statler Hotel Ballroom, has a thorough knowledge of the manufacture and preparation of food-stuffs.

With nine other food authorities, Mrs. Shockley was introduced to the "round table" of New York City's tea and coffee district at the Bureau of India Tea Planters, and there she studied the art of "tea tasting."

Mrs. Shockley said today:

"Inasmuch as most of the tea now consumed in this country comes from the 'black tea' countries, of which India is the leader, it was to the India Tea Bureau that we went for information on the brewing and preparation of tea.

"There you learn that black tea, green tea, oolong tea and all teas, in fact, can and do come from the same tea bush. The only difference is in the curing or manufacturing process.

"We have discovered that American tea tastes have shifted in recent years. Once the reigning tea in this country was the pale liquid of the green tea blends, but today the overwhelming choice is black tea."

Mrs. Shockley pointed out that many housewives do not get the full flavor and fragrance from their teas because of improper brewing. She suggests the following few simple rules for a "good cup of tea."

"See that the water is boiling . . . not merely steaming; warm teapot by rinsing with scalding hot water; put a level teaspoonful of India Tea into the teapot for every cup desired and one for the pot; pour the boiling water on the tea leaves and replace cover; let the tea brew for five minutes—no less! Be sure to remove the tea leaves from the liquor at the end of five minutes. You can either pour the tea off into another teapot or, if you use a teaball, take the ball out of the pot."

LIQUOR LOADED ON U. S. DOCKS AT PANAMA

By CARLISLE BARGERON
(Copyright, 1931)

Colon, Panama, Oct. 6 (US)—There is no statue of Liberty in the harbor here such as greets the foreigner to our shores in New York.

Instead, on the United States-owned and administered wharves of Cristobal, Canal Zone, about the first "monument" that looms is the stack of liquor piled high and zealously guarded by Uncle Sam's own men.

PROTECTS MONOPOLY

The liquor is Jamaica rum, whisky, gin or rare wines destined to augment the output of the Panama breweries and distilleries and for transshipment up and down the coast.

Uncle Sam not only enjoys a monopoly on the liquor traffic within the Panaman republic by means of his privileged Panama railroad, but enjoys a virtual one in the traffic through the Atlantic and Pacific ports.

The city of Colon once had a thriving port itself, a Panaman port. Uncle Sam went out to wreck it and did so.

PLAGUE MENACE IS CITED

Uncle Sam's health authorities decided that the Colon wharves were rat-infested and liable to cause an outbreak of the bubonic plague, so they destroyed virtually all the wharves.

Here in Colon there is the Atlantic brewery, and the distilleries of P. Camazagagio, of Diers and Ulrich and of Antonio Andrade P. In Panama City there is the quite famous Balboa brewery, operated by the Megennis family, which came to the country 25 years ago and is now one of the country's institutions.

The head of the family is known as the Duke of Balboa. The duke is a royal entertainer. He has been host to the "dry" Congressional delegations.

The duke thought that it should be quite practicable for him to set up his own fleet of launches to transport his beer to Colon and to the Panaman country north of he canal. Uncle Sam decreed otherwise. He fell back on those morals which the Canal Zone, the five-mile strip, inherits from Washington, and declared that this would be in violation of the 18th amendment.

AD SCHEME BANNED

The duke must use Uncle Sam's railroad exclusively.

One of the duke's idea men once had a thought that he should advertise Balboa beer on spare tire covers after the manner they have in the States.

The Canal Zone authorities ruled that automobiles bearing such covers could not come into the Canal Zone. Yet the Canal Zone jail uently confines a zone emie who has imbibed too freely n saloon on Panaman territory, across the street from the w, in many instances, and from ith Uncle Sam collects a ground al by virtue of the saloon being wed on ground which he owns.

nother article on Uncle 's government-owned liquor ffic in Panama will appear torow.)

FIGHT ON TO PUT CAPONE BEHIND BARS

that Capone would have to take the stand despite his guilty plea, the gangster decided to fight it out, to wager an acquittal against a stiffer sentence.

SAYS HE'S WORRIED

The gangster's entrance and the opening of the trial lacked only a flourish of trumpets to give it the illusion of comic opera. A crowd gathered at every entrance to the federal building.

Surrounded by a police detail, Capone ran in a side entrance, slipped past the photographers and walked quickly through the crowded corridors.

Asked if he was worried, he hesitated a moment and then replied:

"Well, to be frank with you—who wouldn't be ?."

George E. Q. Johnson, United States district attorney actively prosecuting a gangster income tax case for the first time, said:

"After this is all over I'm sure everyone will admit that no one ever got a squarer deal than Al Capone in this trial."

In the Circuit Court of Appeals today Al's elder brother, Ralph, was granted another stay, until October 20, of the mandate that would take him to Leavenworth penitentiary to serve the three-year term for income tax violations.

TAX CHARGES ONLY

Judge Wilkerson indicated at the outset today thta he did not expect to find jurors who had not read about the defendant or about the case. His question was "Has what you have read influenced you or made you incapable of being fair to the defendant and to the government?"

"You must understand," said Judge Wilkerson, "that the defendant is not being tried here for anything but the charge of violating the revenue laws of the United States."

CAPONE NOT TOTESTIFY

The defense indicated by its questions that Capone wouldl not take the winess stand.

"If in the trial the defendant does not take the stand, which he has a perfect right not to do, would that prejudice you in any way?" was the question as framed by the defense.

The first laugh of the trial came when the court, at suggestion of the defense, asked if any venireman had expressed himself as to what he would do if he sat on the jury in this case.

"Well," drawled a farmer, "I said I didn't think they'd prove half what they had in the papers."

Home Brewing Gains

Auckland, New Zealand, Oct. 6 (AP)—The Government and the breweries are losing money in excise taxes and trade. Home brew has become an increasingly strong competitor with the commercial product.

Cooking School Note

In the cooking school conducted under the auspices of the American in the Statler Hotel Ballroom, Mrs. J. Watson Shockley stresses modern methods of cooking. Naturally, then, she uses and recommends CRISCO, the modern shortening.

She called 'em "Conglomerates" but now Aunt Sally's secret is out

"AUNT SALLY WHITE used to bake the best cakes in our neighborhood," writes the woman who sends me this recipe. "And she was so secretive that when someone asked what went into this particularly good cake she replied testily, 'Oh, it's a conglomerate.' The name stuck, even after she left her handwritten recipe book to my mother. The original conglomerate recipe called for another fat, but I've found Crisco much better."

No wonder—for not only does Crisco taste fresh and pure like sweet butter—but it's so spoonable and workable that you can put your eggs, Crisco and sugar all into the bowl at once and blend them in one operation.

CONGLOMERATES

1 cup seedless raisins
2 cups hot water
½ cup Crisco
1½ cups sugar
2 eggs
1 cup walnut meats (chopped)
3 cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon salt

Boil raisins and water together about 10 minutes. Drain off and save the water, adding enough more water to make 1½ cups of liquid. Blend Crisco, sugar and eggs in one operation. (You'll save ¼ of your mixing time.) Add walnuts and raisins; then the liquid. Sift together the flour, salt, baking powder and spices. Add to first mixture and mix thoroughly. Fill well-Criscoed muffin pans about half full. Bake in moderate (375° F.) oven 15 to 20 minutes. Makes about 30 cakes. Ice with Mocha cream icing. Blend 1½ tablespoons Crisco with 1½ cups confectioners' sugar, 2 tablespoons cocoa and ⅛ teaspoon salt. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla and 2 tablespoons strong coffee.

ALL MEASUREMENTS LEVEL. Recipes tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Institute. Crisco is the registered trade-mark of a shortening manufactured by The Procter & Gamble Co.

And when you haven't time to bake cakes at home it's nice to know that you can go to a nearby baker or grocer and buy delicious cakes made with Crisco.

Most good bakers do use Crisco, I've found. And when a baker is so particular about this shortening, he's apt to use the very best of other ingredients.

MARY VICTORIA WESSON IS TO BE MARRIED ON October 31 at the Wesson country place, Weloveit, at Cotuit on Cape Cod. "Vic" has been up in the air for a couple of years and then came down to earth to please Mummy and Daddy. Her latest plan was to open a dress shop in Cleveland, and we hear that her business partner is furious about this marriage business. We suggest that she cheer up as Mary Victoria will probably be looking about for excitement soon after the sound of wedding chimes have died away and will no doubt answer the Girl Wanted columns again.

All the debs came out to look the team over and all the mothers attended to worry over their little pets who were playing rough for the first time. Mrs. Johnny Dean waxed positively indignant when the boys went into a huddle and started to rough things up a bit. "Look," she shouted, to anyone who was interested, "that horrid brute hit Johnny over the head on purpose." We hope Johnny didn't hear her but we simply couldn't HELP it. Penelope Perry looked very pretty as usual and we think she was with Stuart Scott—but we are not sure.

Down Memory Lane!

(By Alice White, the Blonde Gal of the Talkies.)

I never went to Hollywood to get into the movies. That's news. I moved to the film capital with my parents. That was news in my home town of Paterson, N. J., as all my school friends couldn't believe we were going to Hollywood just to work and live. Two weeks after we were there I found myself in an avalanche of scenarios. My moving picture career had begun. I was a script girl earning $18 a week. I couldn't look a movie in the face. Eighteen dollars a week in an environment of 18,000,000 dollars was like being at a Sid Grauman opening with klieg eyes.

All right, say it's the same old story. But did I work hard? What a memory of those early days in the studio! My first job as script girl was with Joseph von Sternberg. Even in those days Von Sternberg was just a bit different. He thought I was an excellent script girl, but two weeks later he told me I didn't have the temperament for this business. So for $18 a week he wanted temperament! So I got temperamental!

Short skirts were the vogue then. I worked for Von Sternberg for a year and he saw me every day. Two years later when I got my chance in the movies I was exploited as the "girl with the million dollar legs." Who said Joseph was a great discoverer? He even rebuked me for wearing short skirts. Thought it was distracting on the set.

Pardon me while I cry out loud. I had a deuce of a time in Hollywood. Gee, those first screen tests! Those were in the silent days when everybody thought we could just be beautiful and dumb. It seemed like I couldn't be either. They brought me into the testing room 20 times the first day. Finally John Francis Dillon, the director, busted in accidentally and said he needed a sad looking girl for a part in a Milton Sills picture. He took one look at me. Was I sad looking?

Then [illegible] The picture was "The Sea Tiger," in which Milton Sills was starred. What in the world! I asked Mr. Sills [illegible] never [illegible] his answer. There was a smart gentleman [illegible] Milton explained [illegible] a mythical animal that only a Hollywood title expert [illegible] create to fit a picture that has nothing to do with [illegible] such an animal. Poor Milton. If [illegible] I probably would have given up.

[illegible] at the knees. I [illegible] Mervyn LeRoy [illegible] was director, [illegible] to Jack Mulhall. The scene was a [illegible] I was supposed to be dreaming [illegible] I didn't realize until a week later that [illegible] that pool [illegible] the part.

Thank God for Anita Loos. She made the country and First National Pictures blonde conscious and just when I thought the movies and I were made for each other, I was selected for the part of Dixie Dugan in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes." Just when the picture was completed, talking pictures came along. Here I was . . . a star in the movies. But what did it all mean? Now I would have to start all over again. "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," but what about my microphone voice? . . . I told Anita Loos I was worried. Anita said that was foolish, because by the time talking pictures were perfected even Rin Tin Tin would know how to talk. A good gag, but Anita was a little wrong.

Edward G. Robinson [illegible] be a hard-boiled fellow in the movies [illegible] to work with. While we were making "Widow From Chicago" there was a scene in which I was to shoot one of the gangsters. I had never held a gun before. I played around with it for [illegible] and [illegible] to pull the trigger. Each time we went through the scene I got buck fever and couldn't make the fatal shot. Finally [illegible] suggested that we change the script a bit and make a stabbing scene instead.

That "Hell's Angels" opening was a funny experience for me. My maid was quite concerned about my getting there in time. I found the reason later. Standing in front of the theater I noticed her getting out of a Rolls Royce. She was dressed in one of my best gowns. Graham Brothers please notice.

One of the rules on the Warner Brothers' lot forbids anyone on the set to enter the commissary except during the scheduled eating hours. While making "Girl From Woolworth's," we had to shoot a scene at a soda counter. To save time, Eddie Kline, the director, took us into the commissary. We were seated around the fountain, ordering sodas. Jack Warner came in. He asked Eddie if he knew this was against the rules. "Yes," he replied, "and I wish all these rehearsals were too." It happens that Jack Warner insists on plenty of rehearsals.

That [illegible] Mary Astor [illegible] It was during a scene of [illegible] John Dillon was the fiend for realism. The [illegible] for Mary to hit [illegible] like a sock at me. During the rehearsals [illegible] by somewhat pulling the punch but never [illegible] Mary hit me carefully. Then camera [illegible] and let loose. I was out. I didn't know John [illegible] that was the only way it could be done. The next day I [illegible] pair of boxing gloves. A card from Mary read: "By the [illegible]"

Then there was the automobile wreck that we tried to stage in "The Show Girl." The wreck never came off, because Jack Warner thought it was an extravagance after we had already wrecked two cars in the attempt to get a good shot.

The day in Chicago when I arrived with seventy-five dollars and was afraid to leave the train.

[illegible]

The night [illegible] Loos [illegible] when I won a [illegible] Feitman please note.

Random notes: That day when Hal Wallis [illegible] prop boy because I was playing tag with him. The time when Chester Morris took me for [illegible] and forgot how to stop the [illegible] thing. When David Manners was too shy for a love scene with me. Jimmy Cagney's first day in the [illegible] looking too frightened for the part in "Public Enemy." The day Coolidge visited the Warner studio and nobody would believe.

That practical joke Sid Grauman played on me. Invited me to his house to meet some distinguished guests from up North. When I arrived he introduced me to six Eskimos whom he had hired to help ballyhoo a picture. Then the time I went to Tia Juana with Sid and a party of friends and he staged that fake fight with a Mexican. I never learned the truth until recently.

The fondest memory of them all [illegible] those happy days in Paterson, N. J., the [illegible] with nothing more to worry about than the [illegible] day night date. And those short days in Virginia just before moving to Hollywood. Here I am. What a memory!

Ann Corio Gets Big Welcome

At the Old Howard an ovation was given Ann Corio yesterday. All her songs and dances won favor. Her Girls In Blue burlesque also came in for a share of the applause.

The comedy is well handled by clever Billy Fields and Chuck Callahan, who kept things moving at a merry pace. [illegible] Ryan and Tiny Huff [illegible] Bowsers sisters and Lew Petel are conspicuous for originality.

The vaudeville offers [illegible] Moriarty and Burns, steppers of merit; Van Horn and Inez in "Thrills On Wheels"; and Jennier and his "educated" seal.

The pictures are "Brothers," with Bert Lytell and Dorothy Sebastian, and "Sky Raiders" with Lloyd Hughes and Marceline Day. "The Hidden Ball," a Knute Rockne picture, is a treat for football fans.

Exeter Theater

Richard Dix in "Public Defender" and Joan Crawford in "The Modern Age" are the attractions for today and tomorrow at the Exeter. The last half of the week Jack Holt will be seen in "Dirigible." Dorothy Mackaill and Warner Baxter in "Their Mad Moment" will also be shown.

While it may be entirely within reason to agree with the drama's pundits that Pirandello's "As You Desire Me" is a play of tremendous vitalities, we are still inclined to lean a bit toward Judith Anderson's performance as the compelling force in last evening's performance at the Plymouth.

In the important avenue of support Miss Anderson was fortunate. Contributions of merit were submitted by David Tearle, Hugh Miller, Russell Hicks, and a lovely couple basking in middle-aged credulity, Teresa Dale and Harold Vizard. While not exactly grilling in its details "As You Desire Me" presented a tragic story of war's bitter consequences. It was gripping only because Miss Anderson played it with that terrific tension you hear so much about in the theater and so infrequently uncover.

Light Opera Scores at Colonial

By HARRIS MORGAN

The quaint narrative that forms the background of "Pirates of Penzance" was mimed and sung at the Colonial in a manner to entrance the hearts of all the Gilbert and Sullivan fans, and to delight any and all that might be "outside the pale." The Civic Light Opera Company's third week apparently finds it facing a "sell out," as previously, for it was a packed house that greeted one of the most tuneful of all operettas, last night.

Past performances here have established this company as A 1 [illegible] new faces in the line-up of talent have made good with Boston [illegible] in a big way. Good [illegible] "The Mikado," [illegible] and "Pinafore" [illegible] step even higher in [illegible] production, "The Pirates." [illegible] with a fervor worthy of the piece and its stage history [illegible] and choruses measure up to the standard, and the spirit of everybody concerned must meet with the hearty approval of even the most hidebound Savoyard.

That inimitable three, Frank Moulan, William Danforth and Herbert Waterous, oldtimers, who [illegible] teach the younger generation how to act and sing, shine gloriously again. Moulan is the major general doing his character with gusto and ability, and leaving nothing to be desired. Danforth [illegible] screamingly comic sergeant of police, while Waterous is magnificent as the chief of the pirates. The songs of all [illegible] every one [illegible] The fine old wine of [illegible] has real flavor with [illegible] behind it.

A new comer in the company, Vivian Hart, is the general's daughter Mabel and a most pleasing performance is hers. Vera Ross is excellent as Ruth, the maid of all work who shares in some of the best music in the melody-filled comedy. As Frederic, with a good deal to do and much to sing, Howard Marsh, a local favorite with local theatregoers, again wins laurels.

For the staging of "Pirates of Penzance," Milton Aborn deserves [illegible] praise. He and his company make it amusing entertainment, miles ahead of much more modern matter.

Shakespearian Players Score

[illegible] Boston a memorable [illegible] of Shakespearean [illegible] them [illegible] returned last night to the Tremont and to a warm welcome [illegible] opening performance of "The Merry Wives of Windsor."

The players of the Stratford-Upon-Avon Festival Company do not act their parts, they live them, and the audience [illegible] with them. With zest and gaiety, with excellence and [illegible] they [illegible] the merry [illegible] and the merry people of a comedy [illegible]

[illegible] of the city fran[illegible] of the Windsor wives, was played by Roy Byford with full understanding of the bedeviled knight's [illegible] his power over women and his outraged [illegible] dignity in the face of [illegible] disasters.

Mistress Ford, the [illegible] enchanter, was played charmingly by Fabia Drake and Dorothy Massingham was delightful as her companion in crime. In the role of the jealous Ford, Baliol Holloway gave a performance of outstanding merit. And no other player found his role too small for the full powers of his art.

Mayor Curley, in a graceful speech of welcome to the company, spoke of the honor they had done Boston in their return visit.

Al Jolson at the Shubert

Al Jolson, with new songs and in new settings, took the stage at the Shubert last evening and held it from curtain to curtain. Mr. Jolson's medium of expression was the European novelty, "The Wonder Bar," which shows night club life on the Continent. In the supporting cast there appeared Claire Windsor, Lina Basquette, Edward Raquello, Patsy Kelly and Laura Pierpont. "The Wonder Bar" will be reviewed later.

"NIGHT SCHOOL" GIVES GROWN-UPS CHANCE AT COLLEGE EDUCATION

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

ROBERT E. ROGERS

EVEN AFTER SOME TEN YEARS' connection with our State University Extension, I am still surprised and enthusiastic at the wealth of varied courses which this division of the Department of Education is able to offer every year. Beginning in the first week of October and extending well into November, there will be hardly an evening in which the busy class organizers will not be hither and yon all over the city and its suburbs, organizing reasonably priced classes in nearly every subject a person wishing to supplement his cultural and practical education can think of.

In literature some nine classes are offered, including Biography, Modern English and American Drama, Advanced English Literature, Recent Books, Celtic Literature, Yiddish Literature, Play Writing, Poetry Writing and Soort-Story Writing. There are also elementary courses in correct English. Nor is the art of public speaking neglected. There are some eight courses, including Business and Professional Speaking, Voice Culture, Story Telling, Singing Training, Dramatic Expression and practice in Play Production.

Music Hath Charms to Thousands

That Boston is still a great musical center is shown by 10 courses. Some teach Appreciation of Music, of Symphonic Music in particular and of Opera. There are courses in Modern Music, and technical courses in Harmony, Pre-School Music, Voice Training, Piano Playing and Rhythmic Dancing. In the sister art there are two full courses in the Appreciation of Art and the Appreciation of Painting and Sculpture.

There are six courses in Psychological and Mental Hygiene, always popular; Psychology of Business, Personal, and Social Problems; Psychology of Daily Life; of Personality; Mental Hygiene, both for children and for adults, and physical hygiene as well.

There are 10 courses in languages, ranging from elementary French to advanced French Literature, and the Spanish and Italian tongues and literatures as well. There is even a course in Esperanto!

There are half a dozen courses in methods of Education, with special reference to Normal School students working for a degree. For the woman who wants to know something about the scientific improvement of the home, there are nine varied courses: Home Decoration, Arts and Crafts, Advice for Home Builders, House Plants, Gardens, House Repair, Dietetics, and Good Taste in Dress. A varied and inclusive program.

In History, Economics and Sociology there are eight courses, including the famous course in American history illustrated with moving pictures. There are courses in Current Events, Russia in the old days and the new, elementary and public utility economics, and the Principles of Sociology.

Aviation and Radio Taught

There is a Business Institute featuring 30 courses, ranging from elementary shorthand all the way to advanced business administration, and including such subjects as various aspects of Business Law, Advertising, Retail Distribution, Salesmanship, Accounting and Auditing, Commercial Art, Investments, Income Tax, Traffic Management and Journalism. In Law alone there are six courses.

Then there are 20 courses in applied science and technology; Aeronautics and Aviation in various aspects, practical Radio and repairs, Automobiles and automotive technology, including repairs; Industrial Electricity and Engineering, Diesel Engines and Steam Turbines, Alternating Current machinery, etc. There are six courses in Physics and Chemistry, and six in college mathematics, courses in Blueprint Reading and Estimating, and a Preparatory Course for the Lowell School of Industrial Foremen. Many of these courses are given at Technology and by Institute instructors.

This is the list alone of those courses given in classrooms in Greater Boston. It does not include similar courses offered in the larger cities of Massachusetts, in Springfield and Worcester, Lowell and Lawrence, New Bedford and Fall River, Lynn and Salem and other places. Nor does it include some 200 Correspondence Courses, where students work at home individually, their papers and examinations being corrected by experts at the State House.

The faculty for these 125 evening and afternoon classes is collected from competent and experienced teachers in the Boston Public School system and from college instructors in Boston University, Harvard, Technology, Tufts and Northeastern. I believe some are recruited from Brown, and in the western part of the state from the "Mass. Aggie," from Amherst, Smith and Mt. Holyoke.

Courses Are Self-Supporting

The fees have gone up slightly in late years. When I first started University Extension teaching, some 10 years ago, a course of 10 lectures was offered for $2. Today a course of eight, the normal length, is offered for $3, $4 or $5. Credit work, involving papers to be graded, etc., sometimes costs a dollar or two extra. The reason for this is that the department, like most others in the state, has been made self-supporting rather than a benevolence. The larger courses help support the smaller, advanced courses which may not pay their way. But at that they are cheap enough!

This is really, as you can see, a State University. It is the only university, I hope, Massachusetts will ever have. For it is all work. It aims at adults who know their own minds instead of at an indiscriminate lot of youngsters, most of whom are probably not fitted for further education until they have gone out into the world and learned something. It is free from all the elaborate nonsense about intercollegiate athletics and the complicated social and college activity, which take up more than 50 per cent of the average student's interest and energy and time. It is pretty nearly 100 per cent efficient and economical.

It takes ambition, energy and stamina to study at the end of a working day. But the opportunity is here, full and running over. If you do not take advantage of it, you have no right to complain that the present industrial system doesn't give a man a chance. Labor is howling for leisure—and getting it! Here is the way to use your leisure. If you don't use it wisely, there will be some reason to believe that you don't deserve it! Call at the State House and get a catalogue.

3 BOYS HELD IN AUTO THEFT

Three Charlestown youths captured early today in Rutherford ave., Charlestown, after police had twice chased them, were each held in $1500 for hearing on Friday by Judge McDonnell in Charlestown court today.

They are Frank Lewis, 18, of Bunker hill court, Harold Standering, 19, of Frothingham ave., and John J. Waddell, 18, Monument st., all in Charlestown.

The three were charged with larceny of an automobile, property of Myles S. Maxin of 118 North st., West Somerville. Lewis was also charged with driving so as to endanger.

Police are trying to connect the boys with the theft of another car which was abandoned in Summer st. after Motorcycle Officer Norman had chased it and fired one shot.

Reward for Lost Dog

Mrs. J. J. Murphy of 113 School st., Somerville, has offered a reward of $50 for the return of a tiny three-year-old Pomeranian, named Betsy, which disappeared Sept. 26.

CHOKING SMOKE ADDS TO SCARE IN WILD DASH

Conductor Does Fast Work in Opening Doors; Firemen Stop Blaze Quickly

Roxbury Crossing was thrown into an uproar this morning and 15 passengers in a two-car trolley train fled for their lives when flames broke out in the rear car at Columbus ave. and Tremont st.

Sickening smoke added to the fright of the passengers and the excitement was intensified by the arrival of fire apparatus summoned by a spectator. The blaze was extinguished with a loss of $250.

The prompt work of Conductor Frank McNeice of 12 Haverford st., Jamaica Plain and Motorman John Costello of 72 Hyde Park ave., in throwing open the doors, prevented injury to the passengers.

The train was outward bound from the subway, and had just reached Roxbury Crossing when the insulation on a lead wire in the trailer car caught fire.

Traffic was tied up nearly half an hour until the damaged trolley was pushed to the Arborway car barns.

The Road Back

By ERICH MARIA REMARQUE

What Has Gone Before

ERNST tells the story of a group of war comrades after peace is made. Arriving at their home city, Ernst and Lieutenant Ludwig Breyer are attacked by revolutionaries and rescued by the giant Willy Homeyer. At Willy's house the returned soldier is in disgrace for killing a neighbor's rooster. The friends meet again and learn that a former officer, against whom they have a long-standing grudge, is proprietor of a nearby cafe. They visit the cafe and find the former officer. Kosole administers a severe beating and the friends call at the quartermaster's store to get discharge equipment. The next day Ernst calls at the home of his prominent uncle for dinner and horrifies the guests with his army "manners." The soldiers soon are called upon to return to their studies and all gather at the school.

Now Go on With the Story

The great organ with its hundreds of pipes is gleaming in the hall. To the right stand the masters in a group. On the principal's desk are two potted plants with coarse, leathery leaves. In front of it hangs a laurel wreath tied with a big ribbon. The principal is in his frock coat. So—there's to be a "Welcome!"

We pile up together in a heap. Nobody wants to be in the front rows. Only Willy takes up his place there, unembarrassed. In the semi-darkness of the hall his head is glowing.

I look at the group of masters. For us they were once more than other men; not merely because they were in charge of us, but because, however much we may have made fun of them, we believed in them. Today we see them merely as so many somewhat older men, of whom we feel mildly contemptuous.

There they stand now and propose to teach us again. But we expect them to set aside some of their dignity. For, after all, what can they teach us? We know life now better than they; we have gained another knowledge—harsh, bloody, cruel, inexorable. We could teach them for that matter—but who would be bothered?

If a sudden raid were to be made on the hall just now, they would all be rushing about like a bunch of poodles frightened out of their [illegible] should quietly lock them all up and then begin the [illegible]

SNAG SOMEWHERE

The principal is clearing his throat for a speech. The words spring [illegible] from his mouth; he is an excellent talker, one must admit that. He speaks of the heroic struggle of the troops, of battles [illegible] But [illegible] there [illegible] perhaps [illegible] words [illegible] round as [illegible] wig; he looks at [illegible] Willy, [illegible] dorf, Westerholt, [illegible] any of them.

The principal is getting into his stride. He celebrates not only the heroism out there but now the quieter heroism at home, also.

"We at home here have done our duty too; we have pinched and gone hungry for our soldiers; we have agonized, we have trembled. It was hard. Sometimes perhaps it has been almost harder for us than for our brave lads in field gray out yonder—"

"Hopla!" says Westerholt.

Murmurs begin to be heard. The Old Man casts a sidelong glance in our direction and goes on:

"But indeed such things are not to be weighed and nicely balanced. You have looked into the brazen face of Death without fear, you have discharged your your great task. And though final victory has not accompanied our arms, yet all the more will we now stand together, united in

Range and Powder Puff New Clues in Raisbeck Death

Finding of a powder puff [illegible] a new angle on which to work to [illegible] the murder of Raisbeck at Westport, Ct. [illegible] Kenneth Raisbeck, Harvard grad [illegible]

Working in conjunction with Westport authorities, Cambridge police were to interview acquaintances of Raisbeck today, including [illegible] Webber, Jr., 20, of California, who was [illegible] at Harvard [illegible] Raisbeck's [illegible] 12 years [illegible]

CABIN TOO LONELY

Cambridge police also questioned Miss Alice Green of Hampton hall, Hampton st., Cambridge, a cousin of the murdered man, and through her learned that Raisbeck had occupied a room at 44 Brattle st., Cambridge, since early summer where he had been writing a play.

"Reports that my cousin spent the summer at Harvard, Mass., are not correct," said Miss Green. "He did stay there for some weeks in a cabin on the Warren estate, but found the solitude too great and returned to Cambridge. He roomed at 44 Brattle st. until he started for New York at 10:30 last Tuesday morning.

"His death was a terrible blow to myself and my sister, because we have been very close to him from the time he entered Harvard at the age of 17 from his home in East Moline, Ill.

PLANNED RETURN

He stayed with us for some weeks while at Harvard. He was a very retiring young man and was graduated with the class of 1921."

Gray Hair

Best Remedy Is Made At Home

To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It imparts color to streaked, faded or gray hair and makes it soft and glossy. Barbo will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

MONKEY STARTS FIRE, ZOO RUNS

Brockton, Oct. 6—Fire today destroyed the gasoline station of Frank Leighton on East Main st. A menagerie in the rear of the station broke loose and wandered away.

A pet monkey tipped over an oil stove, spreading a mass of flames through the small structure. The monkey died in the fire.

With no water available firemen were forced to use 22 tanks of chemicals before the fire was extinguished.

Leighton today is rounding up the animals which escaped from [illegible] results, [illegible] white mice and eight pheasants.

MAYOR OF TROY SEES SEA COAST MADE BARREN

Burns Declares Vast New York Waterways Would Be Junked and Raps Rail Allocation

Agitation for the proposed St. Lawrence canal project is unpatriotic and commercially injurious to American interests in general and to New England in particular, Mayor Cornelius F. Burns of Troy, N. Y., told the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association at Hotel Statler today.

[illegible] not apparent [illegible] it was designed [illegible] interests of Canadian [illegible] power companies.

Gov. Ely, told the delegates he favored the widening of the Cape Cod Canal and declared he saw indications of prosperity returning to Massachusetts.

Mayor Curley welcomed the visitors and asked the association to go on record as favoring cancellation of war debts in exchange for disarmament.

SEES BARREN SEA COAST

Mayor Burns said the canalization of the St. Lawrence would [illegible] shipping interests in New England [illegible] leaving the coast line as barren of commercial shipping as it was when the Pilgrims [illegible] founded.

"These same companies and individuals," he said, "would scrap New York's canal system, in which an investment of $180,000,000 has been made.

"In my mind, the canalization of the St. Lawrence River would seriously affect shipping interests of all New England."

RAPS RAIL MERGERS

The allocation of New England railroads to trunk line carriers serving ports more favored than Boston is detrimental to New England interests. The New England railroads best will serve the territory from which they derive their revenue by a well-organized determination and drive to route their freight by their own ports, and thereby increase the sailings of coastal and European shipping from Boston.

The convention, which opened [illegible] night with nearly 300 delegates present, was told by the association's president, J. Hampton Moore, former mayor of Philadelphia, that [illegible] had been one of progress and accomplishment.

STATE POWER IS IMPERILLED, HE CHARGES

'Financial Responsibility' Feature Made Target of Attack at Hearing

D[illegible] attack on the [illegible] bill, Frank A. [illegible] at today's session of the [illegible] hearing [illegible] auto insurance [illegible] of the [illegible] companies.

"If the companies get what they want rates will no longer be fixed by the state and they will set their [illegible] to get 25 per cent profit," he said.

"More than 41 of the insurance companies have filed petitions in the Supreme Court to compel Insurance Commissioner Merton L. Brown to officially promulgate his 1932 rates.

"If they insist on going to court the thing for us to do is to pass a law allowing no commissions or acquisition costs to be considered in arriving at the rates to be charged. There is no reason for commissions when the car owners have to take out insurance, and $1,000,000 is altogether too much for acquisition and field services."

[illegible]

CENSURES CHAMBER

[illegible]

"Nobody will be compelled to insure. I leave it to your imagination how many cars will be on the road without insurance and what type of machines.

"The plan is to try to scare people into taking out insurance. If found guilty of motor law violations or involved in accidents car owners will have to take out policies or post bonds.

"After all the chief difference is that under the present system the insurance commissioner fixes the rates, under the proposed system the companies would fix their own rates.

"A driver would be penalized for improper driving even if it happened in Canada or any state of the Union.

"The courts would be clogged. Now there are few appeals on motor law cases. Under the financial responsibility law everybody would appeal to try to escape the insurance penalties."

George [illegible]

Ray Baker [illegible] opposing the financial responsibility bill and Joseph A. Boucher representing taxicab owners, favored insuring the driver.

His arms are whirling like a windmill in a gale.

"Hero's death! And what sort of a thing do you suppose that was, I wonder? Would you like to know how young Hoyer died? All day long he lay out in the wire screaming. Then a bit of shell took off his fingers and a couple of hours later another chunk off his leg and still he lived; and when night fell at last he was done. And when it was dark we went out to get him and he was full of holes as a nutmeg greater —Now you go and tell his mother how he died,—if you have so much courage."

"But, gentlemen," cried the Old Man, almost imploringly, "there is a misunderstanding—a most painful misunderstanding—"

SCHOOL IN CONFUSION

But he does not finish. He is interrupted by Heinrich Fein[illegible] who [illegible] his brother back [illegible] bombardment on the Yser only to [illegible] him down dead at the [illegible] station.

"Killed," he says savagely; "they were not killed for you to make speeches about them. They were our comrades. Enough! Let's have no more wind-bagging about it."

The place is in wild confusion. The principal stands there horrified and utterly helpless. The [illegible] look like a [illegible] Only two of the teachers are calm and they were soldiers.

The Old Man decides to humor us at all costs. We are too many and Willy stands there too formidably trumpeting before him. And who can say what these undisciplined fellows may not be doing next, they may even produce bombs from their pockets. He beats the air with his arms as an archangel his wings. But no one listens to him.

AFTER HIS FASHION

Then suddenly comes a lull in the tumult. Ludwig Breyer has stepped out to the front. There is silence.

"Mr. Principal," says Ludwig in a clear voice, "you have seen the war after your fashion—with flying banners, martial music and with glamour. But you saw it only to the railway station from which we set off. We do not mean to blame you. We, have seen the other side since then, and against that the heroics of 1914 soon wilted to nothing.

"Yet we went through with it—we went through with it because there was something deeper that held us together, something that only showed up out there, a responsibility, perhaps, but at any rate something of which you know nothing and about which there can be no speeches."

Ludwig pauses a moment, gazing vacantly ahead. He passes his hand over his forehead and continues.

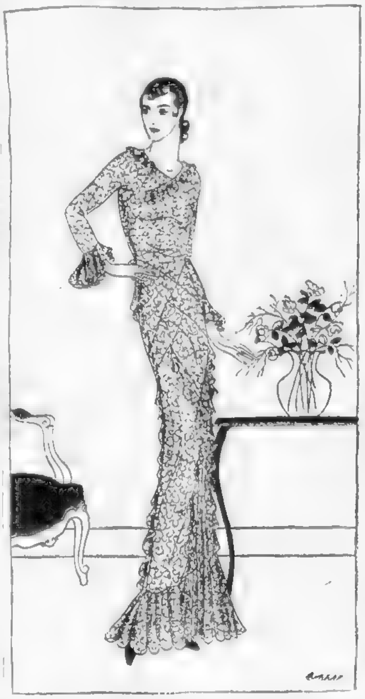
A LELONG INSPIRATION

Clever Ruffled Dress

SKETCHED IN PARIS



The early nineties were the source of Lucien Lelong's inspiration when he created this clever ruffled dress in delicate black lace. Over a clinging silhouette he has poised four vertical rows of ruffling at the back and two at the front of the skirt, as well as sundry ones at the neckline, on the three quarter sleeves and edging the neck.

Old-Fashioned Bustle Is Coming Back Again

By WINIFRED BLACK

THE BUSTLE is coming back —the old-fashioned bustle, that looks like a bird cage—without the bird.

The muff is coming back, too, and the ruffled skirts and oh joy, the fans.

Winifred Black

Now isn't that nice—or is it?

How are the girls going to play tennis and golf and wear a bustle, and a [illegible] back"—and what's a girl with a muff going to do when she drive a car—I ask you?

The fashion papers are full of pictures of the new fashions [illegible] old-fashioned clothes—but somehow I can believe the [illegible] last long, can you?

I saw a girl of twenty [illegible] home from college the other day, and she wore an old-fashioned ruffled skirt, and a short black velvet mantle trimmed with fringe, and the funniest little hat you ever saw.

It was made of blue velvet, and it was as flat as a pancake, and had a little chou of white chiffon in the back as if somebody had dropped a white rose out of the window—and you can't think how queer that girl's shrewd, impudent, self-conscious, self-satisfied, determined, I-can-take-care-of-myself-and-I'll-prove-it face looked under that hat.

Her grandmother now, or her aunt would have been a dream in a hat like that, and she would have pouted and tossed her head and coaxed and flirted, and everyone would have thought her the sweetest thing in the world.

My little twenty-year-old friend didn't pout, and she doesn't know how to blush, and she couldn't flirt to save her life.

She smokes, and she drinks, and she rides like a man, and she walks like a man, too, with long, free, swinging strides.

I don't think we've realized how far away we've grown from the old model, we women of the new school, who make our own money and drive our own cars, and rent our own apartments, and live our own lives, and accept men as a pleasant entertainment—and no more—until we see a brand-new 1931 woman, trying to wear a bustle, and a muff and a pancake hat—and live up to it.

Roses and moonlight, that's the kind of song the girl with muff and the fan used to sing.

And now we sing, "Hot Time Mama," or "Hotsey Totsey Sadie." They are moments when I almost think the old songs were better.

Daily Meal Pattern Useful

By MARTHA LEE.

JUST AS you use a dress pattern for the kiddies' clothes, so you should use a meal pattern [illegible] away with any worry about the [illegible] planning of every meal. For children from 18 months through the third year the daily food pattern must contain one quart of milk, cereal, crisp bread, orange [illegible] cooked fruit pulp, a potato, a green [illegible] a small amount of finely minced raw vegetable, cooked ground liver, dainty desserts such as junket, baked custard, blanc mange, etc., and cod liver oil.

Martha Lee

From four to eight years, the pattern [illegible] one quart of milk, one egg, cereal, crisp bread, a potato, a green vegetable, a small serving of raw minced vegetable, orange or tomato juice, fruit raw or cooked, liver, butter and light cream in small amounts, and bacon once in a while and [illegible]

Then we come to the meals for children from 8 to 12, the child who is still growing, but with food playing an important [illegible] in the process. Body-building foods and plenty of them are needed so that the child may grow strong and tall. Underweight is an ever-present danger. Fuel foods are necessary, too, to feed their energy and give them pep. But food in quantity isn't enough. It must be carefully chosen for its health-giving qualities [illegible]

After a child is seven years old there are only a few foods that he cannot have. These are the rich foods, gravies and sauces, highly-seasoned foods and relishes, tea and coffee, fat meat, and sweets between meals.

FINNAN HADDIE SAVORY

1 finan haddie.
1 large onion.
1 chopped seeded green pepper.
2 tbsps. chopped parsley.
½ tsp. paprika.
4 tbsps. butter.
¾ tsp. salt.
1½ cups milk.

Arrange fish in large baking pan and dot with fat. Then sprinkle with chopped onion, green pepper and parsley and paprika, and salt. Cover with milk. Bake in moderate oven for one hour, basting frequently as milk evaporates.—Mrs. Ann Campbell, 875 E. Fourth st., South Boston.

Household Hint

How to take hump out of braided rug. Put rug on a floor or porch that you can put tacks in without injuring the wood. Tack rug all along one side, then stretch as you go along from the middle of rug. Pull and stretch until you get it all tacked down even and put a few tacks in center, also. Go over the rug with hot iron and piece of wet cloth, ironing until the rug is all done. Leave a few days and your rug will be flat and stay that way as long as it lasts.—Elizabeth H. Hussy, 9 Brainard st., Hyde Park

Daily True Story

Home, Sweet Home

BROADWAY swirled all about him. Women, young ones, whose painted red lips gave them the sophisticated look of those older women, who sought, with rouge and lipstick, to achieve that illusion of cherry lips the younger ones so scorned.

Men, clothes just a trifle too carefully pressed, faces just a bit too smoothly shaved. Men whose eyes never stopped their restless searching of the faces of those they met.

Lights that were red, yellow, green. Lights that moved in restless patterns telling of cigarettes, of toothpaste, of changing shows, of motors—

Horns of autos honking, traffic whistles shrilling, shouts of newsboys and of barkers—a blending cacaphony that ate into his soul and still made him wish futilely for some power to throttle it all down to pianissimo—

Had wanted it all, had Barry Winston.

He yearned for this maelstrom of action and emotion with the tugging heart pull that comes only to the man who looks at Broadway from afar, who hasn't been close enough to the Canyon of Despair to know the heartaches, the bitter realism of its tawdry illusion, the stab of cross and double cross—to know Broadway as it is in close perspective.

ALONE IN THE CRUSH.

Well, now he had it!

He threaded north from 42d at slow [illegible] so as to forget how utterly he was alone.

Memory took him back, back to that time two years ago when he landed on that self same corner.

He saw the picture of the mid-western town when he'd told Mary he was chucking up his job, that he was heading east for the Big Apple.

He heard her plead with him to think of the future that was ahead of him, how well Old Man Ellis thought of him, how he was almost sure to be in charge of his department in a year.

He could almost see the tears, in the vision of her face that danced before him in the lights when he wrote her a check for all the money in their account except for actual travelling expenses for himself East, and for fifty dollars with which to carry on until he found a job.

"You're not Broadway, Barry," she had told him. "You're Main st. in your heart. It sings a song at you, Barry, that Broadway you've just heard about. But Circe sang a song at Ulysses, and it was just another good man gone wrong."

A grin came on his tensed face relaxing it, when he remembered how Pullman conductors had insisted on seeing the inside of the cat-box he carried his clothes in to make sure that he wasn't taking animals into his berth. He remembered how the clerk at his first Broadway hotel smirked when he proved, through an open lid that he wasn't taking an animal up to his room.

Well, now he had his Broadway.

MAKES GOOD

He's made good, as some standards went. His book had sold and two magazine editors gave quick readings to the things he wrote—stories about Main st., stories about back yard gossip and the foibles of the towns of the size he knew.

"Broadway's just Main st. grown up," they had told him, when he'd tried to write stuff about the street of his adoption. "Broadway's folks are just people who are homesick and won't admit it, people who read about the old town pump to cover up the nostalgia that they try so hard not to admit. Write Main St., Barry, and you'll always have a following on Broadway."

And here he was, a Broadway type. He's arrived, had Barry Winston—yet somehow the triumph was ashes in his hands.

Harry, who presided over the strip of awning from the curbing to his elevator apartment home, grinned when Winston walked in rather than alighting from the usual cab.

Joe, who ran the elevator, looked him over with more than usual interest when he stepped into the car. But Barry's abstraction held him still.

He fumbled with his keys and snapped on the light as he stepped through the door. He dropped into [illegible] chair and [illegible] sat [illegible] into space.

Somehow he couldn't shake off that picture of Mary. It kept dancing [illegible] clear [illegible] before his eyes. He [illegible] heard her humming her pet song. Perhaps he dozed.

The light clicked out, and the faint sound of the switch jolted him back to thorough wakefulness. A hand, a soft hand slid along the side of his face. And yet he wasn't startled—wasn't [illegible]

"Mary," was all he said.

But his hand caught hers, drew her to him, and she nestled there in his lap—and kissed him.

"The Mountain did come to Mahomet," she said, after a long, happy pause.

"And Mahomet is going to take his Mountain—take it right back to where they both started from."

She heard it in a voice she'd never known Barry Winston to use in those other days, a voice just crammed with tenderness and longing—a voice that told her what she'd really known. It told her of how his stories of Main st. had been through two long years written to HER.

"And we'll take that cottage on Oak st., the one two doors down from Hatfield's drug store. We'll just come into Broadway for a holiday each year—we'll just use it to season life instead of trying to lead the Broadway life."

There's a swell studio apartment with a "Rent" sign in the window on E. 55th st.

And the Barry Winston novel, due out next year, is going to have a new character in it, a character that makes others in the book walk the floor o' nights.

All names of characters in this story are fictitious.

Girl Should Be Ready to End Quarrel

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

I have been going with a very nice young man until about three weeks ago—when we had a terrible quarrel which I know now was all my fault. I miss him and all his good times and would like to win him back, but don't know how.

Would you write him a card [illegible] or give a beach party and have him come? Shall I ask him as my partner, or shall I tell him to bring another girl?

BABE.

Dear Babe—Yes, it would be all right to send him a card or give a beach party and invite him. It will look more independent if you tell him to bring another girl—at the same time she might interfere with your hopes of a reconciliation; better ask him as your partner.

Can't Hold Boys

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a girl nearly seventeen, have naturally wavy hair, and am considered good looking. My problem is this: I can't seem to go steady with boys. As soon as they find out I care for them, they stop coming to see me. Could you tell me the reason?

"LONELY HEART."

Dear Heart: The trouble is that you show these young men too plainly that you care a great deal and frighten them away. Try being more of a pal, and less of a sweetheart.

GRUNTERS, GROANERS BACK IN TOWN

The guy named Pepper Martin, who they for short call "Pep"
Before the series started didn't have much of a rep
But now he's known all over from Zanzibar to Maine
And out in old St. Loo-ey he's got 'em all insane
They want to make Pep President, and if 'Lection Time was nigh
Durned if he wouldn't win it, e'en running as a Dry!

Burleigh Grimes—that's all! . . . Take it from Connie Mack that's enough . . . And Pep Martin—that's more than enough!!! Old Burleigh came through in the box and with the bludgeon . . . But Martin—the kid's a hitting fool, a fielding marvel and a base-running divil! . . . Shows what two guys can do if they make up their minds . . . But that ninth inning . . . Wasn't we norvous-s-s-s-s! . . . Others were, too . . . The Speakeasies were swamped by the rush . . . Athletics may win yet, but it looks as if Al Capone would have to take Pepper Martin for a ride first . . . If the guy who wrote the "St. Louis Blues" had known Martin he never would have written it . . . Pep even made Connie Mack sneeze . . . Another day and another game . . . Undertakers are praying for another game like yesterday's.

If Bulger Lowe had tossed a football into the Fox Film Exchange last night it would have hit a celebrity, no matter where it landed. Almost every gridiron figure of note on this sector of the football front was there to see the special preview of "The Spirit of Notre Dame." Eddie Casey, Bunny Cochran, Joe McKenney, Bulger Lowe, Myles Lane, Captain John McEwan—it would take a column if we kept it up—all were there, and many of the Harvard, B. C. and other college players. They saw a picture which will warm the cockles of the hearts of every football fan as well as every loyal son of Notre Dame.

Knute Rockne went to Valhalla speeding West on a plane taking him to Hollywood for the making of "The Spirit of Notre Dame." His part in the picture is taken, and taken well, we thought, by J. Farrell MacDonald. The Four Horsemen—Don Miller, Elmer Layden, Jim Crowley and Harry Stuhldreher—Frank Carrideo, Adam Walsh, Bucky O'Connor, Moon Mullins, John Law, Art McNammon, Al Howard and Johnny O'Brien, all play themselves. Nat Pendleton, the old Columbia star and professional wrestler, takes the part of the assistant coach. The feminine lead is played by Sally Blane. And oh, what a girl is Sally!

Cardinal O'Connell, we are told, is going to see the great football picture, The Spirit of Notre Dame. His Eminence will be given a special showing at his residence on Commonwealth Avenue, Brighton. Boston's beloved prelate will see a thrilling picture, a clean and inspiring picture. We wished on Monday night at the preview showing we could have brought our boys, but we are going to bring them to it and some other boys besides. The picture is a character builder. It will make a better boy, a manlier boy of every boy who sees it.

If illness handicaps "Hunk" Anderson it is almost certain that "Slip" Madigan will step into Knute Rockne's shoes at Notre Dame. Little Madigan-coached St. Mary's had a great team last year—ask Fordham—and with defeats of Southern California and California on successive week-ends apparently has a greater team this year . . . Unless signs along the trail are read wrongly, it will be Danny Wells Yale will have most to fear when the skirmishing lines are thrown out against Harvard . . . Yale gets it's baptism of fire against Georgia this Saturday . . . From Georgia's early season showing it will be "some" baptism . . . Little New Hampshire may do something more than ruffle Harvard's hair next Saturday . . . But John Harvard's real trouble starts on October 17, when it meets the Army at West Point, and will be continued here the next Saturday when Texas comes to town . . . That the Texas Steers stampeded Missouri, 31 to 0, last Saturday . . . Which was not exactly cheering news for John Harvard.

Benny Leonard, who retired world's undefeated lightweight champion, meets Pal Silvers in New York tonight . . . If it's on the Up and Up it will show just how far back King Bennah has come on the Comeback Trail . . . If that cut on Jack Sharkey's head was lower the whole complexion of the coming Sharkey Carnera tussle might be changed . . . But it is so high up on the head a reopening would not interfere with Jack's vision, we are told . . . Boston will have to wait until October 23 for its next big boxing show . . . Lou Brouillard vs. Jack Thompson for the world's welterweight championship.

Wish we could move over to Ward 5, Somerville, so we could put in a vote for Charlie Mooney for Alderman . . . Charlie's all wool and a yard wide and everyone knows it . . . If elected Somerville will have the right man in the right place . . . Speedy Dado's right name is Diosdado Pesadas. It means "Gift of God." His manager's name is Jesus Cortes . . . Joe Carr, president of the National Football League, declares college football officials now are convinced the professionals are not trying to break down college football . . . No collegian whose class has not graduated can play on any N. F. L. team . . . That keeps a collegian from jumping his team no matter what financial inducements . . . It's a good rule.

The Grunt and Groaners are back in town again. Paul of the Pachyderms leads his herd into the Arena on Thursday night and the wrestling lid will be off. Ray Fabiani has been running weekly shows in the Garden all summer, but the fans do not take to summer grappling indoors and the small attendances showed that summer wrestling was not in style. With the frost on the pumpkin—Ha! Ha! Speaking of frost with weather as summery as this!—and the fodder in the shock, wrestling comes into fashion again, and from now on the nights will be filled with gruntings and groanings, both at the Arena and Garden. Impresario Bowser is trotting out Jim Browning, the Missouri farmer with the sensational turnover scissors, and John Spellman, the Brown football star, as his opening attraction. There's one old familiar face we all will miss next Thursday night—Stan Stasiak. Green be the turf above the Lion of Poland.

Hark! Hark! The dogs do bark! The Wrestlers have come back to Town!
Terrible sneers, demoniacal leers, and oh, what a ferocious frown!
Their gruntings and groanings, bellows and sighs, their agonized squeals of alarm
Make nights now as hideous, even insidious, as pig-sticking day on the farm!

QUARTERBACK WEAK SPOT OF B. U. TEAM

Boston University [illegible] present, but this week the mentors hope to change the team about so that they can annex their initial victory in their first home game against George Washington [illegible].

The Terriers' outlook this year was exceptionally good, but in the first two games they showed weaknesses which the coaches are going to try to correct by Saturday.

Quarterback position has been particularly bothersome. Phil Hootstein was shifted to the job this year, and he did well in the short time he played; but Phil is too brittle to be depended upon.

Mal Palombo rejoined the squad just prior to the New Hampshire game, and he will be ready by Saturday. If he has not lost any of his old ability, the [illegible] be solved by his return.

The line has been every inch a college line defensively, but on the offense it has failed to open h[illegible] for the backs. This means a great deal of work for the line coach, George Kennally, and he has the [illegible]

With the seasoning of the first two games to benefit the Terriers backfield, Coach Mahaney hopes to see his charges parade to their first victory of the season on Saturday.

If the backfield troubles are smoothed by the return of Palombo, the B. U. team will click, for Coach Kennally is certain his line will be working well for the Saturday game.

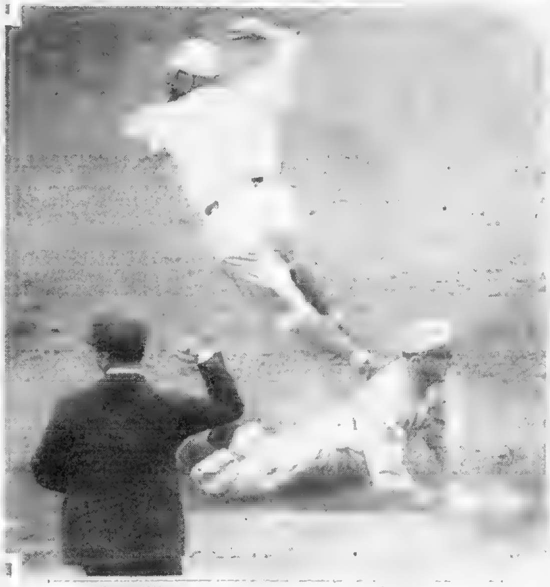
NOSE DIVE FAILS TO SAVE FRISCH

FOXX



McGOWAN FRISCH

Few players in the game today know how to do it, but Frankie Frisch, second baseman of the Cards, is a master at base diving. Frank tried to reach first safely in the first inning of yesterday's game, but Bishop's throw to Foxx reached the bag first. Umpire McGowan is doing his duty, waving Frisch out.

Burleigh Grimes Put Victory Above Glory

Philadelphia, Oct. 6 (AP). He's just an old syndicate writer, this Burleigh Grimes, but if you stick around long enough and talk baseball he'll unburden himself.

[illegible]

in the lobby of the Cardinals hotel and accepted congratulations from hundreds of milling fans and baseball men.

[illegible] two-hit game the veteran had pitched against the Athletics and so for that matter did Grimes.

Telegrams were pouring in from every part of the country. They started coming in a few minutes after the last out had been made and they still were coming at a late hour.

How Grimes Lost Chance for No-Hit Game

"Mr. Grimes, tell us how you felt about losing a no-hit game when it was right in your grasp. After all, a no-hit game would have been mighty fine, especially in a World Series. What was it Bing Miller hit there in the eighth inning?"

The veteran, still clean shaven, pondered a moment.

"Well, it was a fast ball, right smack down the middle. All he had to do was to stick out his bat and hit it. I could have hit it, myself."

"Why did you give him a fast one like that, when it looked like you were going to come up with a no-hitter?"

"It was like this," Grimes explained. "I didn't care so much about that part of it as I did about winning that ball game. We needed it. There already was a man on base and nobody out; I didn't want to take a chance on walking him. So, instead of feeding him a curve and trying to cut an outside corner, I put it straight down the middle, figuring maybe he would hit to one of my fielders. But he plunked it cleanly into center field."

Grimes had he been a little more selfish of his own interests might have gone down in the records as the fifth man in history to pitch a no-hit, no-run game in the World Series. But he didn't take a chance. He made Miller hit.

Al Simmons' home run in the ninth with McNair on base was an anti-climax. Grimes still was slightly puzzled about it.

Grimes in High Glee Over Fooling Umpires

"I figured we could get McNair trying to steal second, so I fed him a 'waste' ball high and outside. What did that guy do but reach out and slap it over the fence. You can't figure out a fellow like that. Any time a pitcher gets Al Simmons out he can say he's done something."

Grimes was in high glee over the way he outguessed the two American league umpires on the field in yesterday's battle. The crowd didn't know what was going on several times when the ball was tossed [illegible] til he received it from the right party.

Once Umpire Stark, behind the [illegible] is in and he neatly ducked, allowing it to roll on out to Frankie Frisch.

"It's this way," explained the Cardinal star, "they've got a rule in the American League that the pitcher has to receive the ball either from his catcher or the umpire. He can't take it from one of his infielders. But we haven't got any rule like that, and it doesn't mean a thing to me."

Although he announced he would be ready to take his [illegible] again if the series [illegible] St. Louis, Grimes had a bad looking little finger on his pitching hand. It received quite a lick when he knocked down a drive from Mule Haas' bat in the ninth inning. It was swollen last night and was to be X-rayed today for the possibility of a break.

H. C., CRIMSON TEAMS TO RACE

Coach Jaako Mikkola's undefeated 1930 team, which [illegible] almost perfect scores in [illegible] races last year is intact [illegible] season.

Capt. Pen Hallowell is starting his fourth year of Harvard [illegible] Arthur Foote, Freddy M[illegible], Dick Wesley, Dick Este[illegible]brook, Alfred Hallowell and [illegible] Robinson. All these [illegible] won their letters or numerals in past seasons.

For the last five years Harvard has been undefeated in cross country competition.

SECOND INNING

THIRD INNING

Cardinals—Wilson flied out to Simmons. Gelbert grounded out to Foxx, unassisted. Johnson fanned. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS, NONE LEFT.

Athletics—Haas singled to right field. Cochrane grounded to Frisch, forcing Haas at second base. Cochrane was safe at first when Bottomley dropped [illegible] throw. Simmons hit to Frisch and the Cardinals completed a double play [illegible] NO RUNS, ONE HIT, ONE ERROR, NONE LEFT.

FOURTH INNING

Cardinals—High bounced to Earnshaw and was out at first. Watkins flied out to Miller. Frisch walked; he was the first Cardinal to reach base. Bottomley fanned, swinging at the third strike. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS, ONE LEFT.

Athletics—Foxx grounded out, Gelbert to Bottomley. Miller popped to Gelbert. Dykes bounced to High and was out at first on a neat play. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS, NONE LEFT.

FIFTH INNING

Cardinals—Hafey grounded out, Williams to Foxx. Martin hit to left field a single. It was the first safe blow off Earnshaw. Wilson fanned. Martin stole second, Cochrane's throw hitting the dirt. Gelbert fanned on a third called strike. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS, ONE LEFT.

Athletics—Williams fanned swinging at a fast ball. Earnshaw popped to Gelbert. Bishop scratched a single, the ball bouncing off Bottomley's shoulder. Haas grounded to Gelbert, forcing Bishop at second with a toss to Frisch. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS, ONE LEFT.

SIXTH INNING

Columbia to Visit Wesleyan Eleven

Middletown, Ct., Oct. 6.—Coach Jim Oberlander began today to prepare the Wesleyan squad for its game with Columbia Saturday. The college will celebrate its 100th anniversary this week-end and Columbia will play the game here.

Oberlander gave the men a light workout because of the hot weather and the hard game with the Connecticut Aggies last Saturday. A stiffer session is scheduled for today.

Harvard A. A. Host to B. C. Grid Squad

Coach Joe McKenney and the entire Boston College football squad will be the guests of the Harvard Athletic Association next Saturday in the Stadium when the Crimson meets New Hampshire. The Eagles will reciprocate on the holiday and will entertain the Crimson gridmen at the Fordham game at Fenway park.

H. C. CONFLICT CONFERENCE ON TODAY

Coach Joe McKenney today begins strenuous preparations for his coming fray with Maj. Frank Cavanaugh at Fenway Park next Monday.

McKenney gave his first team a [illegible] workout at the Heights [illegible] sending it through several new plays, followed [illegible] he dismissed it for the afternoon.

[illegible] who were in the game for a short time only, scrimmaged with the freshmen eleven, winning by four touchdowns. Tom Blake, substitute halfback, was the outstanding figure in the varsity lineup.

In fact Blake was having a field day and the yearlings seemed unable to stop him. The appearance of Blake in the second string lineup, along with Chesnulevich and Dougan in the Fordham game is possible.

The varsity will settle down to real work this afternoon. The Eagles will be up against a much tougher proposition in the Rams than they have faced all year. Coach Joe McKenney announced yesterday that he intends to hold Pete Chesnulevich in the relief role which he has occupied all season.

Captain Kelly Leads Regular Backfield

McKenney will start the same backfield of Capt. Joe Kelly, Charles Cavery(?), Joe Ryder and Johnny Freitas at the opening whistle. After the opposition has been worn down by the pounding of these four heavier backs, the shock troops, Walter Kelley, Johnny Dougan, Pete Chesnulevich and Ed Kelley or Tom Blake will be rushed in to clean up.

One player who appears certain of regaining a starting berth is Roscoe Taylor, regular right guard, who was replaced by Jerry Slamin last week. Taylor had been suffering from a heavy cold but has completely recovered.

The proposed meeting of Harvard, Boston College and Holy Cross athletic directors with city authorities to discuss the charity football game to be played in Harvard Stadium Thanksgiving afternoon will be held this afternoon at City Hall at 2:30 o'clock.

Originally slated for yesterday afternoon, the meeting was postponed until today in order to allow all parties concerned more time to make preliminary arrangements. Mayor James M. Curley is expected to make an official announcement this afternoon at the conclusion of the discussion.

Coyne, Linnehan Grapple Tomorrow

The mat show of the Massachusetts Wrestling Association is held at Mechanics Building tomorrow night. Pat Coyne of the U. S. Coast Guard will meet George Linnehan, the sensational St. Mary's College football star in a one fall match, no time limit.

In the other feature bout Art Flynn, the Lawrence ex-light heavyweight boxer, is a favorite to beat Wild Bill Dolan. They will grapple the best two falls out of three to settle the argument. Flynn beat Sahib Seibeg, the Turk, in a battle at Mechanics a week ago.

If Flynn downs the wild man from Dedham he will get a match with the winner of the Coyne-Linnehan battle. Four preliminaries are on the card.

Amherst Tackle on Bench for Weeks

Amherst, Oct. 6. Amherst rested today as Coach Al Wheeler laid plans for the coming contest with Union. The injury which forced Ed Feinburg out of the Princeton game is a fractured thumb, which will keep the varsity tackle out of play for three weeks.

Bob Greenough, regular quarter, who was left in Princeton because of fear of serious injury, returned to Amherst today and will be in the Union game.

New plays will be added to the Sabrina repertoire this week.

Longwood Seeded Players Advance

Seeded players advanced in the fall women's open tennis tournament at Longwood.

Women's doubles and mixed doubles commence today.

Mrs. William Martin and Junia Bright were forced to three sets to win. Mrs. Martin eliminated Mrs. Paul Sanborn, 6—3, 3—6, 6—2, while Miss Bright overcame Mrs. H. S. Payson Rowe at 6—1, 3—6, 6—4.

St. Louis Man Heads Baseball Writers

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 6 (US)—Roy Stockton, of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, was elected president of the Baseball Writers' Association of America at their meeting here.

Denman Thompson, of the Washington Star, was made vice-president and Harry P. Edwards, statistician for the American League, succeeds himself as secretary-treasurer.

TUFTS FROSH PLAY VARSITY

The Tufts freshmen will line up against the varsity this afternoon for scrimmage minus first string Center Carlin, whose injury [illegible] in Saturday's game has proven to be a fractured wrist.

Undoubtedly Parade, the [illegible] Cuban, who after two days' practice, was used in the freshman's first game, will now become regular center.

With but four scrimmages left before the opening game of the varsity season with Colby at Waterville, Me., on Saturday, Coach Manley is putting the squad through extensive dummy scrimmage.

Smith, the team mascot, made his first appearance at Tufts. None of the coaches but Ruggeri can remember [illegible] game on Saturday. Smith has watched the team work out for six years now each afternoon after his classes at St. Clement's high in Somerville.

ONE VET WITH B. U. HARRIERS

With only one letterman returning and his two stars lost by graduation Coach Freddie Burns is faced with the task of rebuilding the entire Boston University cross-country team. A few candidates have reported but the first general call is for this afternoon.

Captain Menotti Corrieri, of Dorchester, is the only veteran who will wear the Scarlet and White this year. The new men upon whom the Terrier coach hopes to gather a fast outfit of hill and dalers are Henry Harding, Phil Kelliher, Lee D'Orlando, Jimmy Serrigno, and Cross.

The schedule includes a dual meet with Tufts at Franklin Park October 9, the intercollegiates at Harvard on Oct. 23, and a dual meet with Clark at Worcester on October 30.

Leonard Boxes Pal Silvers Tonight

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Benny Leonard will try to prove to the New York Athletic Commission tonight that he still is a good enough fighter to appear in Madison Sq. Garden.

Ordered by the commission to start his comeback in the smaller clubs, the retired undefeated lightweight champion will meet Pal Silvers, Brooklyn middleweight, in a 10-round bout at the Queensboro Stadium.

The commission recently refused to sanction a Garden bout October 16 between Leonard and Paulie Walker of Trenton, N. J., until Leonard first proved his ability in a smaller club. Should he make a creditable showing tonight the commission is expected to sanction the Walker bout on its originally scheduled date.

Colby Prepares for Tufts Clash

Waterville, Me., Oct. 6—Colby opens a drive today for the first home game of the season, with Tufts, on Seaverns field Saturday.

When the first string line is in the fray Colby is capable.

However, the tackling of Colby players is a disappointment. Tom Foley, a back who was injured in the Brown game, reported for practice and will be ready for Tufts.

GEORGETOWN, N. Y. U. EAST'S BIG GAME

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Apparently there are solid grounds for suspicion that Tommy Mills, who used to do his coaching at Notre Dame, has developed quite a football team at Georgetown University.

[illegible]

Mills' charges next must face [illegible] on Saturday looms as one of the East's greatest attractions from a competitive standpoint.

from West Roxbury, who prepped at Hebron and Hank Pierce, an Indianapolis boy who went to Hanover via the Tabor Academy route are still very much in the running.

Ignatius Zantell, who started his football at English high, was rated as a first string guard at the end of last season and he is back and very much on the job this fall. Zantell is fast coming out of the line and has developed rapidly since he has been under McEwan. Zantell weighs 185 and stands 5 feet 8 inches. Connie Sambleski [illegible] battling Murphy and Moore a couple of newcomers to the varsity, for the other guard.

At present, Hank Barber and Hal Durgin are the first string tackles at Dartmouth. Barber is a veteran playing his third year on the varsity but Durgin was converted from an end.

Outstanding Purple Guard Injured

Jim Ryan, the 195-pound Brookline six-footer, who was reported injured yesterday, was the outstanding Crusader lineman against Providence. Ryan is a junior but he had little opportunity to show until this season. Janes, a sophomore, has the call as the opposite tackle while Descher is Ryan's substitute with Riopel, the biggest man on the squad, crowding Janes.

While Holy Cross is fortified with a couple of veteran ends, Colucci and Cavalieri, the Big Green, due to the fact that Capt. Stan Yudicky's knee is still an unknown quality, must stand or fall on Hal Mackey from Gotham and Ward Donner, who was a back last year.

Bill Morton and Phil O'Connell are two of the best quarterbacks in the East. In fact, the Holy Cross leader has few peers in the game today.

Dartmouth has a veteran first string backfield available in W. S. Bill McCall, Aarne Frigard and Bob Wilkin, but Capt. O'Connell and Griffin are the sole survivors at Holy Cross.

Sammy Fishman has been starring at Dartmouth this fall and there were rumors that he would replace Bill Morton, but that procedure is contrary to the policy at Hanover.

MAYS LOSES VARSITY BERTH

A revamped Harvard varsity eleven returned to the grid wars at Soldiers Field awaiting further shakeups by Head Coach Eddie Casey.

For [illegible] varsity [illegible] when he dropped [illegible] Mays [illegible] Johnny Dean [illegible] Hare [illegible] is not [illegible] yet.

Crickard Replaces Mays at Halfback

Perhaps the most startling change in the Harvard team is the shift of Jack Crickard to left halfback in place of Eddie Mays.

Johnny Dean has gone to the B team for further experience. His position as No. 1 back is temporarily filled by Frank Gleason. Gleason may show enough to [illegible] the assignment, but the [illegible] man for the job is Jack Sherochewsky.

Sherry's much [illegible] over [illegible] ical successor in the "A" team backfield scramble. Examinations this week will keep him out of the daily lineups until Harvard faces New Hampshire.

Jack Healey Gets Trial at Guard Post

Jack Healey, the much tossed around "discovery," assumed a new role today. Healey is now at right guard for team B. This is his third attempt to gain an assignment on the Harvard varsity eleven. Healey's problem is the Harvard coaches' chief headache.

Healy proved inefficient both as an end and a tackle, but h[illegible] and speed make the Harvard coaches loath to drop him from the squad. Casey intends to go on grooming Healy until he finds a spot for the Lowell boy to fill.

Irad Hardy and Dave Kopans continue to be the first choices for tackles as Casey grooms the Harvard team for New Hampshire and Army.

The Daily Dozen

By MYLES T. McSWEENEY

Early weather forecast for the 1932 Olympic games at Los Angeles: Very Wet.

But you won't need a rain coat or an umbrella. Bring a glass.

The French Olympic committee announces that it has permission to bring along enough wine to the games to provide every member of the team with a quart of wine a day.

Thousands of Americans are now studying French.

France could easily have the largest Olympic team in history . . . . if it would allow Americans to join.

The German team wants beer. But the German committee refuses to bring any along, saying that there will be plenty of beer in Los Angeles. They must be thinking of Chicago.

If the Germans win, it will be another victory for Al Capone.

A little unlooked for gun play might add zest to the games. Rival beer barons may fight over getting the contract to supply the German team.

The Germans are paying a great tribute to American beer . . . . . . or have they ever tasted any?

If they drink enough "needled" beer, they won't wake up until the games are over.

The British team can bring beer if it wants to do so. Beer is included in what the British call "athletic gear." High or low?

It looks as if the Olympic games will be not only a test of America's athletic ability, but of our native brew as well. Prosit!

MR. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

Wandering around the town one can get a few angles on the life. [illegible] news items. [illegible] Now on with [illegible]

[illegible]

Mr. Boston

[illegible] next Monday [illegible]

[illegible] the Garden, Les Fromans "Doo Hoo for Paris" revue, a charity wrestling card and a [illegible] Bond [illegible] he has to display versatility.

Bobby Goldman and some of the rest of the gang in Newspaper Row trying to dope out the probable winner of the World Series after the Cards have won the first game played in Philadelphia.

[illegible] the management of the [illegible] who [illegible] Brown at [illegible] high powered pub [illegible] director [illegible] market [illegible] newspaper [illegible] for the count.

Billy Cuddy telling the gang that George McIntee will compete in the St. Joe's amateur boxing tournament Saturday night. McIntee is one of the best looking of the new crop of amateur mitt flingers.

Billy Ames telling Johnny McGann at the Garden that the Thompson-Broulllard bout can draw $60,000 if it sells out.

Stock speculators looking for position on the Custom House tower.

Mrs. Boston on the telephone asking what time I'm going to start for home. Asked who was [illegible] "Who did you expect?" Rather chilly like. Oh, well!

Paul Bowser dolling up for his wrestling opening at the Arena Thursday night.

Owner of speakeasy telling friends that Indian summer weather has increased his sales of Jersey beer by 30 per cent. Glad somebody is getting out of the depression.

KELLEY LOSES TO LES BAKER

Leslie Baker of Watertown defeated Charlie Kelley of Newton in ten rounds in the main bout of the Arena A. C. show at the Boston Arena.

Kelley was at his best in the seventh and eighth rounds. He hit Baker with right hand punches.

Victor Lotti of Marlboro, knocked out Tommy Rawson, Jr., of East Boston. Lotti floored Rawson just before the gong ended the fifth round. Rawson [illegible] corner but could not [illegible] for the sixth.

Big Boy Rawson of [illegible] scored a k. o. over [illegible] of Worcester in the second round in the semifinal.

Billy Nevins of Cambridge, was given the decision over Billy Baker of Dorchester. Joan Delano, East Boston, slugged out a four-round win over John Dube of Haverhill. In another four-rounder Joe Dow of Roxbury, defeated Frankie Garcia of Quincy.

Mass. State Squad Has Easy Workout

Amherst, Oct. 6—A short drill was given the Mass. State football men, following their hot weather tilt with Bowdoin.

Al Ryan, Needham sophomore end, is the only casualty. He received a cut over one eye.

The State college eleven plays its third home game with Middlebury Saturday. And preparation for this meeting will start today.

Hinman Replaces Kellogg at Center

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 6—Dan Hinman replaced Kellogg at center on the first string Princeton varsity here. A long meeting in which Coach Wittmer discussed the Amherst game, preceded drill.

Hinman, freshman center last year, received a head injury last week which kept him out of the Amherst game.

Ousted Mayor Raps "Teddy" Roosevelt

San Juan, Porto Rico, Oct. 6 (A.P.)—Today's newspapers published a letter from former Mayor Roberto H. Todd to Governor Theodore Roosevelt, charging the Governor with extravagant and "unlawful" expenditures at his official residence, La Fortaleza.

The former mayor, who [illegible] was legislated out of office after six terms, asserts he wrote the letter to the Governor's "whole record might be known in view of reports that he is to be appointed governor-general of the Philippines."

Rosenwald Offers $250,000 for Relief

Chicago, Oct. 6 (INS)—Julius Rosenwald, noted philanthropist, today pledged $250,000 to the Cook County emergency relief fund, provided five other such contributions are obtained by the committee in charge of the campaign.

TIME TO CALL HALT ON PESSIMISM

By B. C. FORBES

B. C. FORBES

AT [illegible]

But inside, in the meeting place of the American Bankers Association convention, there is less sunshine, less of the holiday making spirit. The bankers —with exceptions—are a glum lot —too glum, much too glum, childlishly glum.

Its high time they, we, all of us, called a halt.

[illegible]

Which reminds me of one James Speyer, international banker, brings back from Germany. The barbers there have reduced rates —or, rather, they are charging only the old rates notwithstanding that faces are now longer.

[illegible] Helped or Hurt by Depositors

[illegible]

[illegible] he himself chiefly attributed his success he immediately replied: "To others."

There's a point in that for every American at this moment, "No man liveth to himself." Let shortsighted selfishness run riot, let each person disregard the general interest, let all attempt to practise the motto "Each man for himself and the devil take the hindmost"—let such conduct spread and it would prove self destruction, suicide. We must have sense enough, gumption enough, sanity enough to all hang together—or all be hanged [illegible].

Constructive Action Needed

[illegible] to be [illegible] withdraw funds from banks [illegible].

It isn't our monetary condition that needs correction, it is our mental condition.

[illegible] organized, that short selling [illegible] New York Stock Exchange, and [illegible].

If all that is true, hurrah for Hoover!

[illegible] the dizzy heights. [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] comes [illegible]

[illegible] stock [illegible]

Unfortunately, instead of making them pay ruinous prices to cover, he foolishly let them settle at losses ranging from twenty-five to thirty per cent.

The convention gets into action in earnest today. But controversial subjects are, wisely, to be sidetracked.

P. S. God doesn't make them better than Dwight Morrow.

POLITICAL NOTES

News and Gossip About People You Know

INGALLS ALMOST BARRED

Senator J. Bradford Davis of Haverhill is credited with pulling the prize "boner" of the year on Beacon Hill. When Rep. Alfred W. Ingalls of Lynn started to interrogate a witness at the hearing on compulsory automobile insurance, Senator Davis, chairman of the joint hearing, informed Ingalls that only committee members could ask questions. Whereupon Ingalls informed the forgetful chairman that he was a member of the judiciary, and would be seated with his colleagues but for a lack of seating accommodations.

MURPHY TAKES TUMBLE

Charles S. Murphy of Worcester, one-time candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant-governor, is suffering from injuries sustained when he fell off his pony during a polo game.

CURLEY SPEAKS

Edward J. Curley of Dorchester candidate for the school committee spoke at rallies in Roxbury, South End, West End and Charlestown last night. Curley has been endorsed by 21 local political organizations, and it is understood that he will receive the support of Chairman Frank A. Goodwin of the Boston Finance Commission in the coming campaign.

JOINS CLUB

Maj. Robert E. Green executive chairman of the Massachusetts George Washington Bicentennial Commission has just been elected president for the 14th consecutive year of the Southern Club of Boston, one of the most exclusive organizations of its character in the country.

IRWIN ELECTED CHIEF

"Eddie" Irwin, of the city auditor's office, has just been elected chief ranger of Williams Court M. C. O. F. of East Boston. He will be installed in that office on Sunday evening, October 25.

INJURED IN FALL

Former Rep. John H. Logue, of South End, who is now a constable in the city collector's office, was painfully injured on Sunday when he slipped and fell in his home. His physician said he sustained a sprained back and will not be active for at least two weeks.

Financial News, Stocks, Bonds and Comment

SPECTATOR

Says;

Through all the confusion in financial circles over the trend of security prices, business and what not, the outstanding fact is that the market continues to act very badly. There is little doubt that a good rally is in the making somewhere in here. In the meantime, however, caution commands that new purchases be withheld until this insistent liquidation comes to an end.

New Standards

[illegible] grade equities like Drug, Loew's and American Tobacco available at from five to 10 times current earnings. It would seem that for a while anyway the standard of value will have to be around 10 times earnings before real buying is attracted.

[illegible]

The Rubbers

[illegible] answer to the current status [illegible] 5 cents a pound. This naturally means inventory readjustments. An element of hope is that rubber producers who will hold conferences abroad this week, may get together on curtailment, yet stabilization schemes don't arouse enthusiasm any more.

Renewal of important selling is understood to be taking place in Johns Manville. This is [illegible]

Bullish Figures Help for Auburn

Bullish figures on [illegible] were a help for Auburn Auto today. The stock mounted $13.50 a share before encountering profit-taking. Shipments for nine months were [illegible] new cars against 13,693 for the entire year 1930.

Enormous Buying Is on a Scale Down

Enormous buying is taking place in the markets, though it is still on a downward scale. The great need of the moment is for some startling dramatic occurrence [illegible] dumping of securities at rapidly shrinking values is a [illegible] concession to fright rather than reason.

Woolworth Stock Selling Overdone

Conservative interests today say selling in Woolworth has been overdone. Much is heard of large balances of the company in sterling, but it is contended that the depreciation of the pound, as far as its importance to Woolworth stockholders is concerned, has been over-estimated.

Potato Crop Affects Bangor & Aroostook

Unsatisfactory potato prices in [illegible] Bangor and Aroostook will affect earnings of this road. It has been pointed out that [illegible] potato growing districts can make little money with their product selling around 50 cents per barrel of 11 pecks. Naturally incoming traffic depends [illegible] feel the reduced earning power in that territory. Some liquidation is [illegible] was for the account of New England [illegible] based on prevailing conditions.

Mathieson Alkali's Operations Better

Operations of Mathieson Alkali in July made a better comparison with the same month last year [illegible] period in the current year. There was some recession in August but it is understood in responsible quarters that results last month were [illegible] better than in August. [illegible] March 31 [illegible]

Scale Buying Evident in Loew's

Considerable scale buying is reported to be taking place in Loew's. With the stock on a $3 annual basis at current levels it is yielding around 10 per cent. Based on net per share of over $6 for the [illegible] weeks ended June [illegible] the stock is selling at about five times earnings. Close observers feel that with the season of better attendance at hand earnings should be maintained and that with any turn in the market Loew's should be one of the first to show marked improvement.

Burroughs Action Somewhat Puzzling

Liquidation in Burroughs Adding Machine is somewhat puzzling to Wall Street, particularly in view of the statement by the company's president last week that the regular dividend of 25 cents a share would undoubtedly be voted at the meeting this month. The usual extra of 50 cents for the year was voted in January, and regular payments have been made so far this year.

STATE ST.

Hears:

That everyone would like to know the reason for the persistent selling. News is scarce in the brokerage houses, and until something "breaks," no amount of reasoning or guessing will draw prospective buyers into the markets. Given news, it is safe to say purchases in anticipation of a turn would confidently go forward.

Warren Brothers

The big Boston paver astonished many when its eight-month report showed earnings of better than $1.50 a share. Because the last quarter usually equals the three preceding periods, it will not be surprising if the common stock shows better than $3.50 for the full year. With cash on hand of $500,000, it is thought the year-end will reveal even greater [illegible] due to the release of funds tied up in projects now nearing completion.

Persistent decline of Borden has carried that equity down below the point set by the old yardstick of 10 times earnings. Opinion of usually reliable sources is unchanged, however, and the company is expected to show at least $4 per share.

$5 Portfolio

The best investment buying continues to go forward in shares selling close to the irreducable minimum. Many high grade issues that have fallen on lean days are now available at or close to $5. Those who figure complete break down would not cost them too much are composing portfolios entirely made up of shares in this classification. Supposing some of the purchases turn out to be worthless enough should stage comebacks to make the system profitable.

A few of the more popular shares in the above classification are American Commercial Alcohol, Bucyrus Erie, Goodrich, Graham-Paige, Hupmobile, Warren Brothers, Warner Brothers, Phillips Pete and Stewart Warner.

Boardroom Briefs

Cleveland is mentioned as possible source of the steady liquidation . . . Well-known insurance company is said to have sold nearly two-thirds of the Consolidated Gas traded last week . . . Utility holding companies have been subject to unrelenting pressure by outright holders where pyramiding is thought to have gone to unjustified extremes . . . Standard Brands and [illegible] of better than 8 per cent [illegible] bound to bring timid money out of hiding soon.

Gossip in the brokerage houses indicates that a reversal of conditions prevailing in late 1928 and early 1929, when stocks were being split up, would be welcome. Motors did this in the not so far back 1921.

STOCKS HIGHER IN BOSTON

Stocks were worked to higher levels in today's dealings on the Boston Stock Exchange. Several issues sold at new lows for the year in early transactions, but rallied later in the session.

Edison Electric was a feature, soaring 10 points. American Telephone was up over 8 points while Atchison advanced over 12. New England Telephone jumped nearly 6 points and New Haven was up over 4. Pennsylvania gained 2½.

Issues making new lows for the year included Spencer Trask, Swift & Co., Mohawk, General Capital, Boston Albany and Anaconda. Gains of a point or better were shown for American Woolen preferred, Boston Elevated, Eastern Gas & Fuel, General Electric, Nash Motors and United Shoe.

No Bids on Loan

No bids were received by Brockton on offering of a $400,000 temporary loan.

Dividends

Columbian Carbon Co. declared a quarterly dividend of $1, placing the capital stock, represented by voting trust certificates, on a $4 annual basis, against $5 previously. Dividend is payable Nov. 2.

Trustees of Massachusetts Investors Trust have declared quarterly dividend (No. 29) of 29 cents a share, payable October 20.

Suffolk Savings Bank declared a semiannual dividend on deposits of 2 per cent, payable October 20. Heretofore the bank has paid its depositors at the rate of 4½ per cent per annum.

Atchison declared the regular quarterly dividend of $2.50 on the common stock, payable Dec. 1.

American Smelting & Refining declared quarterly dividend of 37 cents a share on common, payable November 2, placing stock on a $1.50 annual basis, against $2 previously.

LEADERS RUSH SHARPLY UP IN WALL ST.

New York, Oct. 6—One of the swiftest advances in stock exchange history was staged in Wall St. today, following news of impending constructive efforts at Washington and the tightening of restrictions on bear trading.

Rises ranged from 3 to more than 15 points for prominent shares.

4,000,000-SHARE DAY

The day's turnover was in excess of 4,000,000 shares. Gains were recorded of 5 to more than 10 points by such issues as U. S. Steel, American Can, American Telephone, North American, Westinghouse Electric, New York Central and Public Service of N. J.

Issues up 3 to 5 included General Motors, General Electric, Pennsylvania and Bethlehem. Atchison shot up 16, then lost part of its rise.

Prominent shares shot upward rapidly. They slipped back a little from the best as trading quieted down somewhat after midday, but the advance was quickly resumed.

IMPROVEMENT ABROAD.

Both the London and Paris markets improved substantially, in sympathy with New York, although President Hoover explained that conferences of bankers and political leaders in Washington primarily were for the purpose of dealing with the domestic situation. The bond market also brightened.

After its long ordeal of bad news and nervous selling, the market displayed tremendous relief at the news that aggressive and constructive measures were under consideration, although rumors as to the nature of measures considered were of the vaguest nature.

While some conservative brokers felt that the advance might be too fast, and were reluctant to advise clients to reach for stocks, many traders were at last quick to heed the advices of numerous commission houses that stocks had been marked down to bargain levels in the hysteria of selling.

Decisive action to prevent short selling that would depress the market was also viewed in many quarters as highly constructive, even though Wall Street is traditionally opposed to artificial restriction of trading in normal times.

Youngstown Sheet Mills Speeding Up

Youngstown, O., Oct. 6—Sheet mill operations here are expanding, reflecting a moderately improved market for flat steels with automotive and other consumers more active in taking steel. By mid-week sheet production here probably will be 30 per cent of capacity, against 15 per cent a week ago, due to resumption of operations at several plants. Mills rolling flat steels apparently will be more active than in months.

Cheerful Closing Is Seen in London

London, Oct. 6 (AP)—The stock market closed cheerful, with further gains in gilt-edge securities and industrials and a slight recovery in transatlantic issues. Improved sterling exchange and favorable Wall Street advices aided the advance. Sterling touched $3.90.

Budd's Purchases for 2 Months Up

Purchases of castings and tool steels by the Edward G. Budd Manufacturing Co. in August and September of this year were greater than in any corresponding months since 1928, according to officials of the company. This represents an investment in tooling for production activities in October and November and reflects future business of the company, Budd officials pointed out.

Curb Market Joins in Spirited Rally

New York, Oct. 6—The Curb market joined other markets in a spirited rally today. American Gas and Commonwealth Edison soared several points. Electric Bond & Share, United Light "A," American Light & Traction and Brazilian Traction were among the active issues to improve rather sharply.

Sales of Bickford for Month Larger

Bickford's, Inc., reported September sales of $628,108, against $481,047 in September a year ago, an increase of 30½ per cent. For the first nine months of this year, Bickford's sales were $5,851,693, against $4,347,443 for the first nine months of last year, an increase of 36 6-10 per cent.

Industrial Rayon Profits Increase

Cleveland, Oct. 6—Industrial Rayon Corp. reports for quarter ended September 30 net profit of $333,109 after charges and taxes, against $51,498 in the preceding quarter and $362,037 in the third quarter of 1930.

Nine months' net profit was $307,971, against $1,262,089.

Grains Are Higher in Chicago Market

Chicago, Oct. 6—Grains finished higher today. Wheat closed firm, 2-2½ cents higher; corn 1¼-1⅜ up; oats ⅞-1¼ advanced, and provisions varying from 10 cents decline to 15 cents gain.

"One thing lacking," says Senator Fess, "is confidence in our financial institutions."

Some of us not only lack confidence in our financial institutions—we lack deposits.

What this country needs is a switch of yes-men from the movies into responsible positions in banks.

Seldom dine in nice snug speakies.

Little Willie, nearly four,
Shut Pa's neck in the ice box door.
Mother said, "good gracious, Will—
"Papa's apt to get a chill!"

* * *

"All the world's a stage," says Rev. Wiley, "and the women are leading men."

Stenogs who have no charm at all
Must do without fur coats this fall.

BULL-ONEY

(The Case Against Birth Control)

"Restore large families and you have gone a long way toward ridding the world of recurring economic depressions."—Dr. E. Roberts Moore of the American Association of Social Workers.

But it might keep heads of families from noticing the difference.

According to Ambassador Dawes, mankind makes its greatest errors in times of prosperity.

But not governments. They wait till it's necessary to do something.

And typists who are bleak and tacky
Seldom come to work in taxis.

And so few of our big-shot gangsters have ever been in one that it's beginning to look as if our jails are sort of losing out as schools for crime.

"Honesty is the best policy," says the Rt. Rev. Mr. Wiley, "unless you really want to get elected."

It's time to call
The cops and lancers
When wrestlers act
Like adagio dancers.

Milestones on the path to moral decay:

PITTSBURGH—A township board of education in Butler county has ruled that hereafter the paddle to be used in punishing disobedient pupils shall be of soft pine and not more than a quarter of an inch thick.

* * *

And another thing the Farm Board hasn't been very successful in controlling is the general impression of the Farm Board.

Port of Boston News

By JAMES J. DELANEY

Giving employment to hundreds of fruit handlers, the United Fruit Co. steamer Crawford Ellis is discharging at Long Wharf after arriving here from Bowden, Jamaica, with a large cargo of bananas and cocoanuts. Large gangs of men started unloading 36,201 stems of bananas. She also brought plantains, limes, alligator pears and chayotes.

SAN BENITO

Laden with a large cargo of bananas from Tela, Honduras, the United Fruit Company steamer, San Benito, is looked for late tomorrow afternoon, as the result of a wireless message received at the line office here from the ship. She will discharge her fruit cargo at Long Wharf.

STOMACH TROUBLE

Mr. N. T. Julian, 117 Harrishof St., Roxbury, Mass., says —"I suffered great distress from stomach and bowel trouble. I had taken all kinds of medicine recommended and had been treated by a physician, but got no permanent relief. A friend told me of Dr. Walsh. Said that she had suffered much as I did and that Dr. Walsh had given her permanent relief. So I had Dr. Walsh treat me. Now I feel so well that I permit the publication of this testimonial in the hope of helping others who suffer as I did."

The Nation's Loss

DWIGHT W. MORROW

The nation is shocked and profoundly moved by the sudden death of Dwight W. Morrow. He was one of the great human assets of America. With many distinguished acts of public service already to his credit, he was regarded by his countrymen as standing at the threshold of even greater public usefulness and wider national influence in the days that lie ahead of us.

Sprung from good, but unpretentious stock, Dwight Morrow had made his own career by diligence and integrity.

His career at the bar in New York was one of steady progress and brought him at a still youthful age to the notice of the leading financial interests of the city.

Abandoning the legal profession for finance, he carried into his work as a banker the poise and balance, and the capacity for reasoned and accurate judgment, which he had learned as a lawyer.

His mind, however, was of a generous and spacious type. He was not content merely to amass money. He had the broad vision of life and of living, and a sense of those elevated and truer values that are realities only to the high intellectual caste.

Success meant more to Dwight Morrow than mere fortune. The riches of the spirit were the wealth that he coveted. The rewards for which he strove have their dwelling place within the breast of man and spring from approving conscience.

His inconspicuous but invaluable service as a trusted adviser of President Coolidge, his Amherst classmate; his brilliant career as American Ambassador in Mexico, where he achieved signal success in composing the controversies and irritations which had so long marred the relations between the two republics; his later service as a member of the American delegation to the London Naval Conference—are all of recent memory.

But it was his decision to stand for electoral office and become a candidate for the United States Senate from the State of New Jersey that brought home to the country a realizing sense of his potentialities as a commanding national figure.

His courageous declaration in favor of the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment introduced a long-awaited and refreshing sincerity into our politics.

It stamped him at once as a man of true senatorial calibre.

His triumphant election by the people of his State therefore came as no surprise.

Now, at the very opening of what was destined to be a great career in the Senate of the nation, he is cut down, in the prime of his mature years and powers.

His death is a grievous loss to the country.

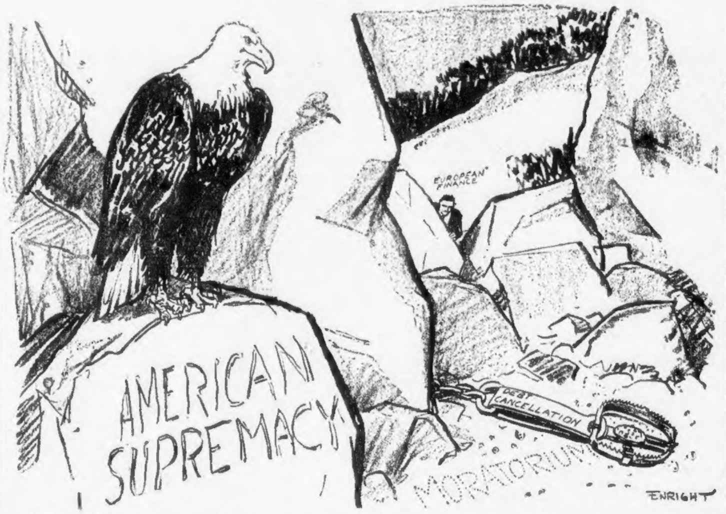
League Court Blocs

League Court judges lined up politically in deciding the Austro-German customs union case. This opinion was expressed recently by the Kansas City Star in reviewing the decision editorially. The Star added:

"One of the strongest reasons against American membership in the Court is THE DANGER TO THE UNITED STATES in submitting itself to a tribunal packed against it in advance. European nations generally are jealous of the wealth and power of America. THERE IS NO QUESTION WHERE THE SYMPATHIES OF A MAJORITY OF THE WORLD COURT JUDGES WOULD BE IN A QUESTION INVOLVING AMERICAN INTERESTS.

"The United States always has been a leader in international arbitration. It has shown its position by the many special arbitration treaties it has negotiated. But it simply COULD NOT AFFORD to agree to go before the Court set up as an auxiliary to the League of Nations; a Court DOMINATED, as now has been demonstrated, BY EUROPEAN POLITICS."

The Baited Trap



Embittered European nations, strife-torn, tax-burdened, poverty-stricken, while brawling amongst themselves, have one cause in common—to transfer, as quickly as possible, the heavy cost of the Great War to the United States, to American taxpayers.

Europe's suave diplomats, trained in the ways and wiles of the Old School, are determined to trap the American Eagle and clip its wings.

The year's moratorium on all war debts is the corn, with which they would entice the Eagle into the jaws of the Cancellation Trap.

Cancellation—repudiation—of all their just debts to this country, which saved them in the Great War, is their ULTIMATE AIM.

Let Congress be on guard to protect American taxpayers from the machinations of the wily foreign diplomats by DISAVOWING the MORATORIUM, REFUSING SANCTION to any "WAR DEBT RECONSIDERATION" and thus BLOCK CANCELLATION.

Why Are Crooners?

AN INDIGNANT husband wants to know why women make such a fuss over those fool crooners. There's his wife—she's forty-six and ought to have sense—yet she'll sit all evening listening to that "mushing blat and actually sniffling over it"—why?

Elsie Robinson

I'm thinking of Emily Wilson. Emily's one of those colorless, ineffectual creatures that successful men accumulate before they know what it's all about. She seems lost in the fine house which wealth has built about her, with the prospering years. And ever more lost beside big, busy Fred. Does he even notice she's there? Probably not, he's so taken with many outside interests, outside friends.

Yet he'd probably grieve over her if she went. Or, at least, he'd grieve over the memory of what they had once. Someone who knew them when they were young tells me that Fred was crazy over Emily when they were first married. He was just starting his practice then—they were very poor, but wonderfully happy. He'd bring her a cheap little bunch of flowers every Saturday night or a box of chocolates. She'd have surprises for him. Strawberry shortcake—out of season. Or a necktie, made from an old silk gown. He'd make a great fuss over the surprises—and her foolish, fond little face would grow bright and quivery with delight.

On Sundays they'd go somewhere for a picnic. Cheap street car trips—but her eyes would be starry as she clung to his arm and he'd strut like a couple of Napoleons.

Joy as simple as that couldn't last, of course. With his intelligence he was bound to forge ahead, where she couldn't follow. By their sixth anniversary, she was fading, he was yawning. But he was kind—considering. Never even suggested a divorce. Never cheated. He realized she had done the best she could. And, in her way, she was still a comfortable habit. So he stuck—but with each year he grew more indifferent. No more boquets Saturday nights. No more picnics Sunday. Didn't even notice, any more, when she fixed a surprise—

At first she tried to do something about it, but she soon gave up. It was too much for her. Everything was too much for her. Life would have licked her, any way. It always does—women like that.

So they've gone on together. Married fourteen years now. She's thirty-seven . . . he's forty-five. One baby, died at birth. Some people say Emily has done well for herself. Plenty of money—no worries—a kind husband who will give her anything she asks. Yet . . .

All day she drifts around the big, handsome house. The days are curiously empty. She isn't much for company or reading. Never was. But there used to be so much to do for Fred. Now there's—nothing.

Lately she's gotten into the habit of spending most of her time before the radio. She knows all the singers and announcers—they've become a sort of family. She has made pictures to herself of how they look. Some of them, she is sure, are not very happy. Particularly the crooners. They're big, strong men—of course. But somehow they seem lonely, too. Longing for something—trying to tell her about it—singing just for her. For hours she sits listening—

Once her husband, passing, caught her at it. Laughed and teased her. She didn't answer. Just gave him a strange look—flushed painfully. But he didn't notice.

After he had gone, she went on sitting there—a small, quiet shadow in the big, dim room. A little, lonely shadow sitting alone with a man's vibrant, caressing voice.

"Sweet and lovely
"Sweeter than the roses in May,
"Sweet and lovely,
"Heaven must have sent her my way—"

The voice went on and on. Her eyes closed . . . her hands moved timidly . . . her foolish, faded face grew warm and quivery with delight. Unconsciously she leaned forward . . . a little lonely figure leaning, once more, against a man's caressing strength.

Why is a crooner? What's why. And if I were an "indignant husband" it would make me feel like thirty cents.

New York Day by Day

Japanese Playboys

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—Ladies living lightly have found the usual crop of White Way wastrels exhausted. Luxury lads of the Flash Era now find it difficult to pay rent on the high-up and all the way back hall room. Their extravagances depended entirely upon a rising market.

Thus have many cloistered cuties suddenly turned to rich Chinese and Japanese spenders. The recent disappearance of a wealthy Jap and news he lavished a quarter million on a platinum temptress was only made conspicuous because of ensuing thick headlines.

Instead of an isolated liaison, it was only one of many. There is a certain block in the West Seventies ramparted with ornate apartment houses and filed with lustrous nests for those dizzy damozels skimming like wild geese over the gray marshes of life.

While Chinese are in the minority in such attachments, there are quite a number known to elevator boys, with behind-the-back grins, as "The Mysterious Mr. Wu." The Chinese has a firmer grip on his pursestrings and is not so inclined to cut capers.

But the play-boy Jap is a Good Time Charlie. His preference is almost solely for bright blondes, a choice said to have resulted in such a sudden switch from henna to platinum among the Broadway dolls who live in the eternality of their now.

There are obscure restaurants with booths that for a time catered to such companionships but lately the seclusion has been dropped. The "ghost girls" are seen in public places—the theater, smart cafe and strolling along the various promenades.

Incidentally, I am told the only sales of importance in high class jewelry establishments this summer were to Orientals for Occidental inamoratas. And I like the story of the swacked maid in a speakeasy, who, airing a current headache, cried: "I'm sick of tightwads. What I crave is a nice Yellow Peril."

There is to me a dull charm about Central Park when leaves fall and broad meadows become acres of withered tuft. A bench on one of the rocky outcrops behind a circle of bushes becomes a bastion of meditation. Yonder is the breathless skyline—the ghostly radiant spire that is Pierre's, the gilt pinnacle of the Sherry-Netherlands, the frosty facade of the Savoy and the splash of the Plaza's green roof. It's a swell perch to think up pieces one never writes.

* * *

Spring, of course, has its soft sorcery, but I believe melancholy days unloose the sturdiest thoughts. In the spring a young man's fancy, etc. But in the fall dreamers are practical.

There are other miracles of mankind's bravado that seem more apparent in the fall. I think at the moment of the young man I saw skipping out of the St. Moritz this morning. In butter bean shaped riding pants of bright yellow, an equally bright green coat, highly polished boots and silvered jangling spur, he was a hatless and truant Pegasus with a hothouse red rose behind his right ear.

There was a squirrel, too, in the park that followed me along on the asphalt, scurrying to a bench top or darting back into the hedges at intervals. When I sat down hoping he would hop on my shoulder as they often do with friendly strangers he would follow. Not until I got home and told my wife did it appear significant. I might have known there would be a smart crack about what always attracts squirrels.

Someone sends this excerpt from a New York column in a Toronto paper describing several columnists: "McIntyre seems in a constant twirl. If sitting he squirms around in his chair. If standing he will suddenly pivot around on his heel."

That came from being frightened silly by a revolving door when I first came to town.

Just Folks

Lady Riches Pays a Call

When Lady Riches calling came
We fancied she would stay,
We bought a house to suit her fame,
And planned a garden gay.
We changed our habits and our ways
That she might feel at home.
We went in debt to win her praise,
Not thinking she would roam.
When Lady Riches smiled on us
We thought her heart was won.
We put on airs and made a fuss
As folks have often done.
We took a costly ocean trip
The scenes afar to see.
And all because her ladyship
Dropped in on ma and me.
While Lady Riches lingered here
We lost our senses quite.
We looked on poorer friends as queer
And frowned them out of sight.
We thought, of course, she'd come to stay,
So very true she seemed,
And that she'd up and fly away
So soon we never dreamed!
But hear it now from one who knows
She is a fickle dame.
The Lady Riches often goes
As quickly as she came.
And having let us think that we Knew just where we were at,
Without a word of warning she
Packed up and left us flat.
Now back to old-time friends we turn
Who count not what is spent,
And with the little we can earn
We try to be content.
And should the Lady Riches pay
On us a second call,
No friend in truth shall ever say
That she has spoiled us all.

Congress Must Redeem Nation From Apathy of Hoover Policy

President Hoover's studied avoidance of advocacy of an economic plan for the United States redoubles the obligation of Congress to act vigorously and intelligently.

At its next sitting Congress should promptly enact legislation for a vast Prosperity Loan of $5,000,000,000 for social reconstruction and the restoration of normal economic processes.

Already valuable months have been allowed to pass WITHOUT LEADERSHIP FROM THE WHITE HOUSE.

At its first opportunity Congress should end the period of ruinous delay, and authorize the Prosperity Loan forthwith.

Unlike mere temporary relief expedients, the Prosperity Loan is aimed at the problem of checking the destructive forces of liquidation and deflation.

A vast bond issue would in itself go far toward stopping the ruthless deflation, and would set in motion counter influences. Accompanied by a policy of credit easement, it would tend to relieve the paralyzing pressure against the price structure.

At the same time, by breaking the ice, the Federal Government would give private business men a new vision of opportunities for legitimate profit, and they would jump on the band wagon and initiate projects.

The merchants of the country would benefit immediately from the releasing of purchasing power to those who are now unable to buy the things they want and need.

As much new work as is practicable should be released promptly, and plans should quickly be formulated for work not immediately available.

In view of the lack of enthusiasm of the Executive, Congress should not leave the determination of the work that is feasible and the application of the funds to the President.

The President seems incapable of taking any action on any question, no matter how urgent, especially if that question relates to the United States.

His trend of thinking and his experience seem to make him more interested in foreign than domestic matters.

President Hoover evidently thinks he is still the head of a foreign relief organization and that his sole duty is to distribute American largess to foreign nations for the benefit of foreign peoples.

He is seemingly under the delusion that he has no obligation to take care of his own American people, or at least our own American people.

The duty to do this consequently devolves upon Congress, which should determine how the fund, raised by a Prosperity Loan, should be spent and when it should be spent and where it should be spent.

The Prosperity Loan is a scientific effort to put forward a constructive and useful activity instead of the devitalizing dole.

It substitutes a beneficial measure for an evil measure.

Let Congress capitalize the present emergency and seize upon the occasion to launch an energizing program.

Let Congress turn away from the current spirit of pessimism and defeatism, and tap the vast latent energies of the American people.

This Is No Time for Ideals; Let Short-Selling Be Halted!

By B. C. Forbes

The New York Stock Exchange is entirely correct in contending that an unrestricted market, permitting untrammelled short selling as well as buying, is ideal.

But there are times when the ideal must be sacrificed to the practical, times when theories must bow to actualities, times when conditions necessitate compromise.

WE HAVE REACHED SUCH A TIME.

Let us grant that any restriction on short selling is not ideal.

But is the sinking of a hundred thousand millions of securities to absurdly unwarranted depths ideal?

Are bear raids on stocks already selling far below their genuine worth ideal?

Is heavy wagering that depression will go further—that is the net of present short selling—ideal?

Are the thousand-odd bank failures, inflicting losses upon millions of unfortunate depositors—caused in many instances by the tragic pressure on security values—ideal?

Is the shriveling-up of business profits and dividend disbursements ideal?

Is the enforced idleness of some six million breadwinners ideal?

Are the prices being received by wheat growers, corn growers and other agricultural producers ideal?

Are current prices for steel, copper, rubber, oil and other basic materials ideal?

Is the haunting fear which is causing hoarding ideal?

Is the dread which frightens millions to live miserly, to swell savings deposits in preference to spending normally, ideal?

In one word, are the conditions now afflicting this and every other land ideal?

NO.

Many, many ideals temporarily have had to go by the board, have had to succumb to stern circumstances.

Continued sanction of injurious bear raiding of our already seriously sick stock market is another ideal which the New York Stock Exchange should give up in the interests of the greatest good of the greatest number.

UNLESS IT ACTS VOLUNTARILY, COMPULSION IS CERTAIN TO BE APPLIED.
